A MONETARY IMPASSE HAS BEEN REACHED GOLD BLOC STILL FIRM AMID CHAOS

London, Yesterday.

Despite repeated confident prophesies of its imminent disintegration, the gold bloc still stands, declares "The Statist" in its International Banking number, published to-day. The journal, however, points out that the American monetary policy has played an appreciable part in consolidating its position owing to recent American support of gold currencies.

Despite the examples of Estonia and Czechoslovakia, whose trade immediately improved after the abandonment of gold, the gold bloc's determination to adhere to gold remains unshaken, avoiding at all costs the dangers of inflation.

CANTON STILL OPTIMISTIC OF COLLECTING TAX

OMINOUS THREAT TO FOREIGNERS

DRASTIC MEASURES WILL BE TAKEN

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Canton, Yesterday.
 The provincial authorities have not yet abandoned hope of collecting business tax from foreign merchants, although Captain Anthony Eden, Lord Privy Seal, stated last Wednesday in the House of Commons that such a tax is "unfair, arbitrary, unpractical and vexatious."
 It was learned to-day that the Business Tax Bureau will again ask the City Chamber of Commerce to make an investigation of the foreign firms which have, in part, Chinese capital. Such firms are required to pay business tax as if they were Chinese concerns.

Since the inauguration of the Native Goods Selling Department, native products have found a ready market. A branch has already been established in Swatow.

It is learned that with a view to increasing the market for native products in the north, the authorities of the general department are now contemplating the establishment of a branch in Shanghai. This proposed branch, it is anticipated, will soon come into existence. If the Swatow branch proves useful—Central Press.

Capitalists Forecast

SPECIAL TO SUNDAY HERALD.
 The United Press has learned that capitalists expect President Roosevelt to present a six-years' plan to discontinue sniping and offer co-operation in the hopes of heading off inflation, a 80-hour week, and other proposals which he fears the Left Wing of Congress will favour.

Fine and warm weather, with moderate to fresh north-east winds, was the weather forecast for to-day, as issued by the Royal Observatory last night.

PENAL SERVITUDE FOR HIRED ASSASSIN IN HONG KONG'S MOST SENSATIONAL CRIME IN 1932

REFORM IN INDIA

NO ALTERNATIVE TO PROPOSALS OF SELECT COMMITTEE

REPORT AWAITED WITH ANXIETY

CRITICISM FORECAST

New Delhi, Yesterday.

The Indians are awaiting with excitement tinged with anxiety, the publication next Thursday of the report of the Select Committee on Constitutional Reforms. The present elections are being fought largely with a view to the impending report.

The return of the Congress to constitutional methods is regarded as the best proof of Lord Willingdon's policy four years ago while Congressmen demonstrated extremist activities everywhere.

Now they are soliciting votes. Even Mahatma Gandhi is urging electors to record votes.

Moderate Indians realise that there is no alternative to the Select Committee's scheme, and the feeling is growing that an effort must be made to work the reforms.

It must be anticipated that the report will meet with the sharpest criticisms from the Congress and other communities, but the moderate elements are not likely to complain of minor defects provided the central basis scheme for gradual self-government is unaffected.—Reuter.

 Jack McLean, the Scottish amateur champion and British "Test" player, who came fifth with a score of 294, won the Gold Cup for the leading amateur.—Reuter.

ROSENBLUM LOSES HIS TITLE

Outpointed By Olin

New York, Yesterday.

Bob Olin of New York, won the world's light-heavyweight boxing championship last night when he outpointed the holder, Maxie Rosenbloom, in a poor and uneventful 15-round contest.—Reuter.

Her first attempt to set a new trans-continental air speed record failed, but Mrs. Maxine Howard will try again. An oil line leak forced her down at Kansas City at the half-way point on her trip.

GRAN CHACO WAR

PARAGUAYANS CLAIM BIG VICTORY

Geneva, Yesterday.

Simultaneously with the announcement that the League Commission for the settlement of the Gran Chaco dispute sat until early this morning on an uncompleted task and is resuming work later to-day, came an official claim of a big victory from Asuncion.

The Paraguayan Defence Ministry announces that several Bolivian regiments have been decimated, and the Chief of Staff and 7,600 men taken prisoners.—Reuter.

AIR RACE PROTEST DISMISSED

Melbourne, Yesterday.

Squadron-Leader Stodart's protest against the timing in the England-Melbourne air race has been dismissed.—Reuter.

"AIR RAID" ON NANKING

Fire Engines Clatter Through Streets

Nanking, Yesterday.

Three Chinese Government planes from Hangchow "Bombed" Nanking this morning, when a preliminary air raid protection drill was staged.

The arrival of the raiders was announced by blasts from sirens and the frantic tolling of bells. All traffic was halted and the fire brigade units were rushed to various points where fires were supposed to have broken out.

The Capital will be plunged into total darkness to-night. The lights in amusement centres will be extinguished.—Reuter.

On Tuesday the Colony will have its first test of an "air raid" at 7 p.m.

TRIANGLE STORY

FENG TEH CHIEN SHOT DEAD WHEN OUT WITH ACTRESS

"HE WAS PAYING TOO MUCH ATTENTION"

CHENG KWOK YAU ECHO

Shanghai, Yesterday.

An echo of the sensational Cheng Kwok-yau murder case heard in the Hong Kong Supreme Court in August 1932 was heard here this morning when Wong Nun-hiang was found guilty of being the actual slayer of Feng Teh-chien and was sentenced to life imprisonment by the Nantao District Court.

The Court found that Wong was hired by Chen Kwok-yau, son of a Kuala Lumpur millionaire, who is now imprisoned at Hong Kong, to kill Feng, due to the latter paying too much attention to the noted Chinese actress, Miss Lai Ming-fai.—Reuter.

The case, which involved one of the longest Criminal Court hearings in the history of Hong Kong, and aroused almost unprecedented interest in the Colony, was popularly termed the "Village Road Murder Case."

The crime was committed at 8.30 p.m. on March 24, 1932, the victim being Mr. George Fung, a member of a well-known local family. Fung left a house in Wong-Nel-Cheong Road in company with Miss Lai Ming-fai, and when near the Young Wo Nursing Home, was shot in the back by a hired assassin, alleged to be Wong Nun-hiang. The motive was said to be revenge, Lai Ming-fai having for two years lived under Cheng's protection. A previous attempt to perpetrate the crime had failed.

ZEPPELIN FOR MANCHUKUO?

Beans Exchange With Germany Reported

Dairen, Yesterday.

The so-called Manchukuo announces that negotiations are nearly completed through Captain Haupt, Zeppelin Company representative, for the exchange of beans from the three Eastern provinces for a German zeppelin valued at 6,000,000 yen.

The barter agreement will be signed in Tokyo shortly.

The zeppelin is for the trans-Pacific service.—Reuter.

MADAME CHIANG IN SHANGHAI

Air Trip From Tsingtao

Shanghai, Yesterday.

Madame Chiang Kai-shek and the Chinese Finance Minister, Dr. H. H. Kung, arrived in Shanghai this morning by air from Tsingtao, where they spent two days. It is believed that a loan of $1,500,000, on behalf of the Tsingtao municipality, is possible in the near future.—Reuter.

ANTI-RED CAMPAIGN NEARS CLIMAX

COMMUNISTS PERFORM INVOLUNTARY SERVICE

London, Yesterday.

The long struggle between the Nanking Government and the Chinese Soviet State in Kiangsi and Fukien is clearly approaching a climax, declares "The Times" in a leading article to-day.

Until last Autumn the Communists had the better of the annual campaigns, but after a year of unremitting economic and military pressure, Marshal Chiang Kai-shek has driven the Reds from the capital, Shukin, and so reduced their territory. They are now trying to break out westwards.

HAPPILY FOR CHINA, KWANGTUNG AND KWANGSI ARE CO-OPERATING WITH NANKING AGAINST THE COMMUNISTS. THE JOURNAL CONTINUES. IF THE LATTER CAN BE HELD IN THE TERRITORY THEY HAVE NEWLY SEIZED, THEIR DESTRUCTION SEEMS CERTAIN.

The possibility of their escape to Szechuan determined General Liu Hsiang to seek assistance from Marshal Chiang Kai-shek. Thus it appears that the Communists performed a signal, though involuntary, service by promoting closer co-operation between the Central Government and the rulers of outlying provinces.—Reuter.

BUSINESS TO AID RECOVERY

Co-Operation Pledge Adopted

WALL STREET FACTORS

SPECIAL TO SUNDAY HERALD.

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1921. Received November 17, 12.37 p.m.)

New York, Yesterday.

Technicians have hailed the steadiness of industrial shares, despite the break in utilities.

Favourable market factors to-day were that the United States Chamber of Commerce has passed a resolution for co-operation to aid recovery, that it is said that President Roosevelt is "receptive of suggestions to promote common welfare," and that the Youngstown district steel producers plan the highest activity since June.

An unfavourable factor was that New York City proposes an additional 1.5 per cent. tax on utility incomes, principally affecting the Consolidated Gas Company.—United Press, per S. E. Levy and Company.

SATISFACTORY CAR LOADINGS

New York, Yesterday.—Car loading show a gain over last year for the first since July, and a less than seasonal decrease below last week.—United Press, per S. E. Levy and Company.

MORE CANTONESE VICTORIES OVER REDS REPORTED

GRIM BATTLE NEAR YENSHOU

HEAVY CASUALTIES

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Canton, Yesterday.
 Minor fighting with the Reds took place at Yen-shou on Friday morning and resulted in another victory for the Cantonese troops, who claim to have captured over 100 hand grenades, several machine guns, 120 rifles, and other military paraphernalia.

A terrific battle has been fought at Kan Chia Bridge, near Yen-shou. An official report states that the Government troops were again victorious, inflicting over 1,000 casualties to the Communists and capturing 200 prisoners.

During the past week, the Communist invaders have been pushed away from the Kwangtung borders. The Third Independent Division was responsible for the drive.

RED REMNANTS IN RETREAT

Chen Chi-tang Orders Mass Attack

Canton, Yesterday.

After the battle at Yen-shou, the main strength of the invading Reds has been lost. The remnants, numbering about 10,000, have retreated to Yehang, Liangtin, and Linwu, south Hunan, in an attempt to find a safe passage to the west.

THE RESURRECTION OF CHILTON HILLS

By PHILIP CURTISS

I HAD a strange experience, not long ago. I had an invitation to spend a week-end in Chilton Hills, and it is quite impossible to describe the sensation it gave me. It was much as if I had been asked for a week-end in Thebes.

Twenty-five years ago, of course, Chilton Hills was probably the smartest resort in America, and a visit there was like a novel by Ouida at the height of her fame. The place had, I believe, the first eighteen-hole golf links in this country, and at one time two others were under construction. It had the best polo field away from Long Island, and in the autumn there was fox-hunting three times a week.

The North-eastern tennis championship was played there every summer, and a famous man-about-town once remarked that it was the only place outside of New York where one could always be sure of good bridge. During a visit that I made one college vacation there was a dance every night at the country club or one of the cottages, and that year appeared the daring innovation of dancing in the afternoon.

Only vaguely, out of the kaleidoscopic haze of that momentous fortnight, do I remember a vast jumble of lesser events such as paper-chases, regattas on the lake, and morning concerts by a string quartet, although I do recall that when we younger guests were starting off to play golf or ride the older members of the household would usually be going to a lecture on the art of George Sand or an exhibition of Indian baskets.

Then something happened, and little by little Chilton Hills disappeared from the social map. Indeed, on my second visit, I wondered whether it had not also disappeared from the topographical map, for hardly had my car crossed the boundaries of the village when I began to feel that I was in a city of the dead.

On a hill near the centre of the town was a gaunt stone chimney with a few charred beams to show where once had stood the finest country club in the United States. Beyond it loomed the empty shell of the famous Chilton Arms, a great summer hotel with a rusted chain stretched across its gateway and its acres of windows now boarded up. At a turn in the road was a simple meadow, knee-deep in daisies and buttercups, with only a few rotted lengths of whitewashed fence to remind the traveller that once it had been a polo field.

Only a few private cottages, set back in their lawns and trees seemed to be well kept and prosperous. Among them, happily, was the familiar place of my former host, Luke Munday; but if the public life of Chilton Hills had entirely disappeared, so, correspondingly, had the private life allowed down from eight or ten thousand revolutions a minute to two or three languid turns a year.

On my previous visit, as I could well remember, it had been several hours after my arrival before I had even time to unpack my bag, but now, as soon as the first formalities were over, Luke turned to me with an apologetic smile.

"Bob," he confessed, "to be frank, I have the habit of taking a nap every afternoon. Do you mind being left alone?"

To tell the truth, it was so many years since I had been left alone, except in the subway, that I didn't know whether I minded or not. For two or three minutes I wandered around, feeling quite lost and ill-at-ease, then suddenly I saw a steamer chair range invitingly on a cool, shaded terrace. As I stretched out luxuriously, my eye was caught by a book that someone had left on the bricks at my feet and, the next thing I knew I was being called for dinner.

And that was exactly the pace at which we passed the whole week-end. In the evening, Helen Munday played the piano in rambling fashion while Luke and I loafed at full length and smoked our cigars. Nobody came in, nobody went out, and I do not recall that the telephone rang during my entire visit.

On Saturday we strolled down to a pond in the woods, undressed in an old barn, and went in for a swim. On Sunday night we found ourselves again on the terrace with crickets chirping in a neighbouring hayfield and, over our heads, a blanket of stars. It was funny but, actually, I seemed to have forgotten that there still were stars and crickets. I had an unconscious feeling that when the movies and motorcars had come in they had gone out.

It was beautiful, it was incredibly beautiful, but it was all so different from the old Chilton Hills that I could not lose the sensation that there was some mystery about it, something that should be explained. At the same time I could see that it might easily be a tender subject, and it was only there under the stars that I found a way to make guarded inquiries.

"Luke," I asked, "have you been here ever since the old days?"

"Oh, no," answered Luke, easily, "there were eight or ten summers that the house was closed. We only came back when we heard that the country club had burned down."

"You mean," I asked, vaguely, "that you meant to rebuild it?"

"Decidedly not," replied Luke. "We came back only when we felt sure that it never would be rebuilt."

His words did not seem exactly to be making sense, and for a moment longer I floundered around.

"But what," I asked, "has become of the other people that used to be here; the Haddons—wasn't that their name?—and that polo man with the awfully pretty wife—and that brisk, breezy chap who used to be something important in steel?"

"Oh, they're still here," answered Luke. "You'd probably see them if you stayed around long enough. Most of them went away, as I did, for a while, but in the end they all came back. Of course," he added, "for a man in my circumstances it is the wildest extravagance to be living here now."

If his previous words had been somewhat mysterious, these last were a cryptogram.

Luke explained.

"Oh, it isn't the cost of living. That's simple enough. It's the value of the land. Land to-day in Chilton Hills is worth five times as much as it was in the old days. If I would consent to sell this place I could get enough to live in luxury for the rest of my life."

"But why?" I demanded. "What makes it so valuable?"

"The fact," replied Luke, "that Chilton Hills to-day is a spot absolutely unique."

Then apparently seeing that he must tell once again what was to him a very old story, Luke leaned back and began.

"You remember, of course, what Chilton Hills was like in the old days?"

"Yes, I remember very clearly. It was—"

"It was a nightmare," broke in Helen, sharply.

Luke laughed. "I'm afraid it was before we got through. You know, most Americans are still pure savages when it comes to pleasure. A savage believes that if one quinine pill will do him some good, twenty quinine pills will do him twenty times as much good. And that used to be exactly the state of mind here in Chilton Hills."

"Because we had fun with one golf links, we thought we would have twice as much fun with two. Because we got a thrill from a little scrub polo team that beat everything in the country, we thought we would have a bigger thrill if we got better players and beat everything in the world. Because we liked to dance once a week, we tried to be six times as happy by dancing every night."

"The result was that in the end we were so highly organised and equipped for pleasure that we didn't have any more fun. We were so busy organising tournaments and taking tickets for polo games and running to railways to meet musicians for our concerts, that we no longer had any time to play in the tournaments or watch the polo, or listen to the music."

"One summer I was treasurer or secretary of eight different drives or committees or organisations, I was selling a million dollar's worth of bonds for the new country club and at the same time I was trying to run a business of my own in New York. Everybody else was just as busy and, apart from this, we had our private entertaining. That same summer we went to forty-

CHIFFON DESIGNS FROM FLOWERS

NEW NECKLINES

THE lovely stiffened chiffons and organzas in clear flower-garden colouring, which one creator of fashions uses so sympathetically, require a good deal of keeping in order. Many of these are made with the principal flowers of the design cut out and applied or poised on the dress.

This treatment applies also to printed crepes. Dresses are long, sometimes trained for evening and ankle length for afternoon. Evening dresses are mostly sleeveless and show new necklines, square or round, and not too low at the back.

TONING UP FACE FOR WINTER GAIETIES

London.

THE fact that no fewer than eight important charity balls, to say nothing of all the other gaieties, are already planned for the Royal wedding month, November, means that women are now booking appointments for skin toning in their favourite beauty salons.

A warning is being issued to his clients by a specialist on the subject of strong skin tonics for the sensitive fine-skinned Englishwoman. Aluminium, chloride, tannic acid, and other intense styptics are sometimes used for skin tonics, but they have the ultimate effect of hardening a thin skin, peeling it off, and making it too transparent. One result of this transparency is that the skin gets shiny and weather-beaten.

After washing and before powdering the skin there is a vegetable skin tonic that is intended to be sprayed on to the face with a special little spray supplied with the bottle. This ensures even treatment and prevents the facial tissues being rubbed or stretched the wrong way.

When a woman is toning up her face by home treatments, one specialist has a chart of the week's beauty routine that looks somewhat like a family tree.

One night a week the face has to be painted with a lotion that draws out the acids formed by town living, the fruit and vegetable diets that women now follow, and the waste matter of make-up that cleansing

Dinner Jacket Buttons

PLAIN BONE CHALLENGE

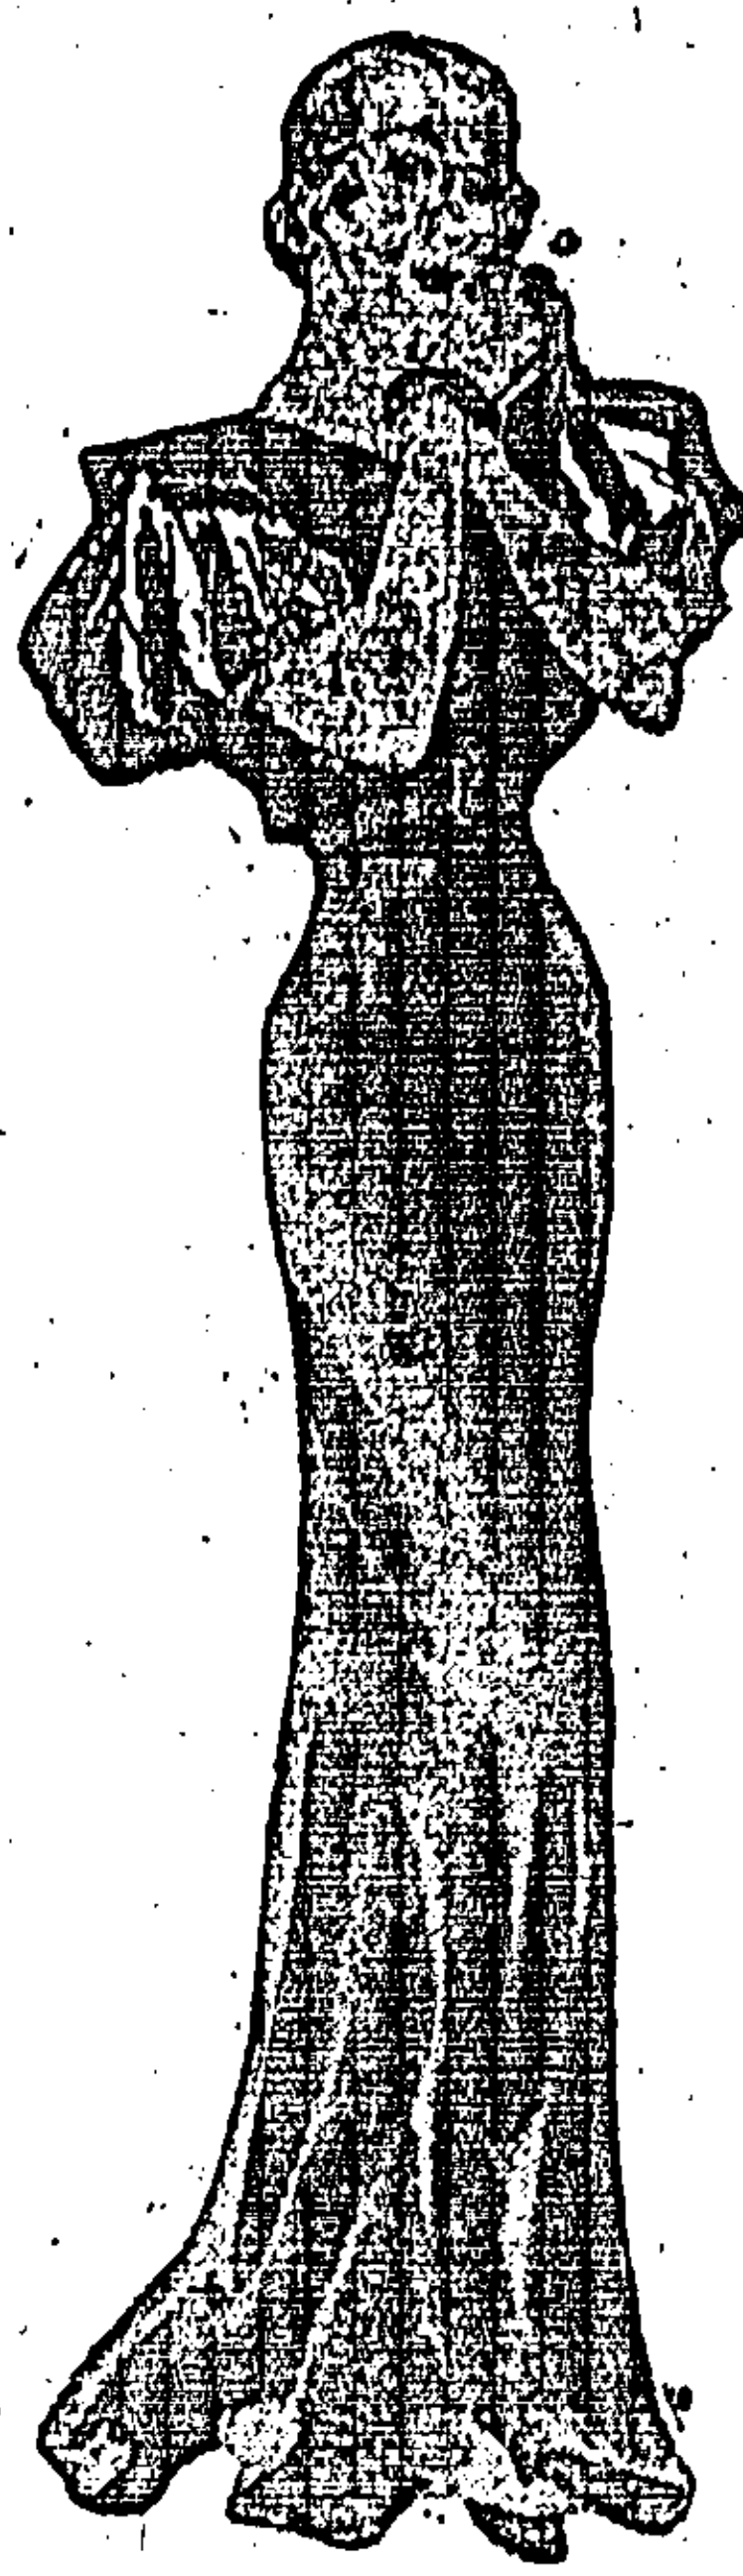

Paris.

CLOSE fittings for evening revived the aggravating little fastening details that have such a nasty habit of catching on to everything. Capt. Molyneux has found the perfect solution of the difficulty. He is not going to encourage extravagance by making women indulge in snails, seashells, brazil nuts and other types of fancy clip. The simplest form of button on the market, the corozo, is the new idea.

This is the plain bone button used by tailors on a man's dinner jacket. The very simplicity of these buttons makes them look exotic in their evening use when a short line of them is run down at one side to fasten the wearer into a gown. The belt need not show a buckle either but a single row of buttons and button-holes instead.

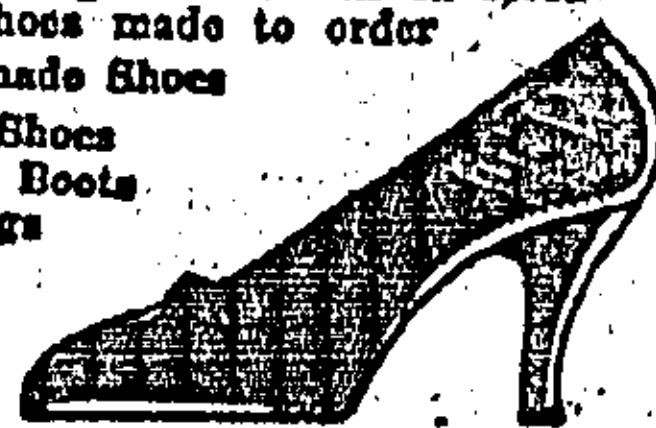

Crepe Gown

There are two new belts, the wide "binder" of fabric buttoned to cling and crinkle over, so slightly on to the figure, and the swathe. This is given a certain twist so that it stays in place above a short end hanging down one side. Leather belts play an ingenious role dyed to tone with corozo buttons and a periwinkle blue evening gown, while one of natural tan saddle leather to match short leather gloves of lighter weight takes a daring pose on a sleek black velvet outline. Belts of peccari and saddle leather appear again, but unpolished—a leather thong cut from the hide being coiled into a rosette which replaces a buckle at centre front. This detail on a dirty pink treebark crepe gown goes perfectly with one of three new thigh-length slack caped-coat evening wraps in tan-coloured Lyons velvet.

creams and lotions do not always remove. On alternate nights the skin is fed and toned.

The "Double Duty" Evening Wear

CHERRY-COLOURED CONVULVUS GLAZED CHINTZ

A BLUE suit had a knee length tunic of rough oatmeal-coloured cloth bound with a darker blue for everyday, and a tunic of dark blue crepe with a lovely design of white and cherry-coloured convolvulus for gay occasions.

The new glazed chintz is used for morning frocks, some are sleeveless with tie-up shoulders while others have Peter Pan collars and short sleeve finished with pleated frills.

TUNICS REMAIN POPULAR

FOR day wear there are clover, semi-high necks to blouses and jumpers, showing above collarless coats, not put on as separate collars but cut in one with the blouse. Blouses are mostly buttoned at the back, and are tucked into the skirt, a belt of the same material as the blouse worn over the skirt giving a longer waist-line. Dark or strong coloured blouses in angora or crepe satin accompany home suits. Tunics remain popular.

UTILIZE YOUR OLD FUR COAT

YOUR winter coat may be trimmed heavily with fur or not—according to your purse, but those with an old fur coat that is "good in parts" can make the yoke and upper part of the sleeves of their new coat from it.

Faile And The Straight Empire Models

THE "double-duty" idea for evening is one that will appeal to most of us where means must be considered.

Take the simplest of black velvet skirts with the suggestion of a train and a loose, collarless, thigh-length coat with perhaps fur on the wide sleeves. And one party tunic in, say, oyster metallized satin, and another with a soft cowl neck in black velvet, or, indeed, just as many blouses as you wish, and you have a stand-by for all occasions, from the most informal to the dressiest.

Long chiffon scarves were shown with both the old-fashioned evening dresses of stiff satin or faile and the straight Empire models.

Huge flowers at the bosom—clematis on a pale cyclamen tunic, and lilies on a brown velvet dinner gown were another feminine note.

EDWARDIAN THEME CONTINUES

THE Edwardian theme in millinery still continues and has developed along dashing lines. Brims sweep up from the front and are caught up with flowers and ribbons. Sailors, both flat and curly brimmed, take a list to port, and are bound with gay fluttering ribbons.

COLOURED FURS ARE "TABOO"

London.

GREY furs are in evidence this season, but it is doubtful whether the coloured furs are having the great vogue predicted for them. The exclusive designers are apt to treat the pink, blue, and green foxes rather as a joke for the trimming of cocktail suits and little evening capotelets. For daytime, the more eccentric coloured range in furs is "taboo." A smaller amount of real ermine or mink is a more fitting decoration for a dark afternoon reception or evening toilette of velvet and satin.

A COAT OF TRUE DISTINCTION

SCOTCH CHEVIOT

ONE of the finest separate coats seen is the Scotch cheviot. It is classic in outline but intricate in cut. It is easy but form-fitting, fastening over at the side and front and having stitched gores on the hips. One enormous patch pocket brown leather fastenings on the front of the coat and on the belt across the back are stiff and strong—made by a harness maker. In spite of all these unusual details, such restraint is shown in the tailoring that this is a coat of true distinction.

SEPARATE TOPCOATS

SEPARATE topcoats are no longer just feminine versions of a man's polo coat. Some are great wrap-around blanket affairs, cut on the bias so that they ripple far out. These are generally knee-length. Others are made with fur linings and vest effects.

HUGE CHINESE CROWD TWICE RUSH THE FIELD OF PLAY

"Y" LADIES MISS OPPORTUNITIES AGAINST C.B.A.

GOALLESS DRAW IN CUP SERIES

MISS BRYSON OUTSTANDING PLAYER ON FIELD

Enjoying most of the play in the opening half, during which countless opportunities were missed, the "Y" Ladies held the Central British Association Ladies, conquerors of the Caer Clark champions, to a goalless draw in their Cup competition game yesterday at King's Park.

The "Y" Ladies were poorly served at forward, the wingers, Miss Bradbury and Miss Brown, being particularly weak, while the inside forwards, Miss H. Trehear and Miss B. Walker were unable to accept any passes that came their way.

Miss P. McCaw made her first appearance as leader of the forwards this season, but has not yet settled down. She very nearly scored, however, in the opening half when she went through on her own, but she was at fault in not combining with either of her inside forwards.

Miss Dalziel was outstanding saving the team on innumerable occasions when the wild attempts at clearance by the two backs let the C. B. A. forwards through. Miss B. Blumenthal, at left-half, was lamely weak and was overworked by playing with the reverse side of the back, a fault which should be checked immediately. L. Hickoy is improving, but has yet to clear quicker—her distribution was, however, good.

The teams were: C. B. A. — S. Best, P. Woolley, E. K. Walker, M. Bryson, E. Beavis, G. MacNider, K. Blackmore, N. Whitley, R. Woolley, M. Smith and D. Hunt. "Y" — W. George, J. Wilson and A. Fowler; L. Hickoy, G. Dalziel and B. Blumenthal; V. Bradbury, B. Blumenthal; V. Bradbury, B. Walker, P. McCaw, H. Trehear and O. Brown.

CAER CLARK CUP CHAMPIONS WIN OVER SCHOOLGIRLS

Score Six Times In League Game

MISS CHURCHILL SIGNALISES HER RETURN

Although the Schoolgirls' put up a plucky display, their weak defence could offer no resistance to the fast-moving Hong Kong Ladies' forward line who scored 6 goals without reply at King's Park yesterday.

Miss Joan Churchill, playing her first game for the champions this season, was in great form, scoring four of the six goals. Mrs. Harrop netted the other two. The half time score was 4 goals to nil.

Miss M. McCaw, who recently returned from Australia, assisted the Schoolgirls' at centre-half, playing a very hard game. Miss H. Knill, their captain, broke away on several occasions, but could not get within shooting range. Miss D. Moss, in goal for the Schoolgirls, was often tested and brought off many good saves.

Lack of hitting power, rather than speed, appeared to be the weak link in the Schoolgirls' team.

The teams are: C.B.A. Ladies — B. Hance, E. M. Gray, J. Smalley, E. O. Hagan, B. Pope, B. Hebling, D. Davies, C. Ferguson, Mrs. P. A. Harrop, J. Churchill and A. Jack.

Schoolgirls — D. Moss, M. Bell and K. Nair; M. Lammer, M. McCaw and J. Lakeman; E. Rousseau, J. Humphries, H. Knill, A. Martin and P. Stringer.

SAINTS LADIES ROUT RECREIO RIVALS

Miss W. Woolley Again Leads Scorers

St. Andrew's Club Ladies' team defeated the Club de Recreio Ladies by 5 goals to nil in a friendly hockey game on the Police Training School ground yesterday, after leading by two goals in the first half.

Miss M. Woolley (3) and Miss P. Gitting (2) were the goal-scorers.

C. W. A. boat and T. Campbell Black, world-record breaking British flyers, are here seen acknowledging the cheers on Flemington race-course, Melbourne, 30 minutes after they had won the Millethall-Nelbourne air classic. Sir Macpherson Robertson, donor of the £10,000 first prize and £500 gold cup, is seen on the right. This picture, the first to reach Hong Kong of the air classic, is by courtesy of Paramount Films, who are showing a film of the air race at the Queen's Theatre to-day.

CLUB BEAT NAVY IN THRILLING GAME

HOWELL-DAVIES SHINES IN BEST RUGBY MATCH OF SEASON

ONE OF THE BEST RUGBY GAMES THIS SEASON WAS WITNESSED ON THE CLUB GROUND YESTERDAY WHEN THE CLUB FIRST FIFTEEN DEFEATED THE ROYAL NAVY BY FIVE TRIES AND A PENALTY GOAL (13 POINTS) TO A GOAL AND A TRY (8 POINTS). IN THEIR FRIENDLY ENCOUNTER.

Dazzling three-quarter movements and concerted forward movements featured the game, which was thrilling from start to finish, the second half being played at a terrific pace. HOWELL-DAVIES SHONE AS THE BEST THREE-QUARTER. HIS BRILLIANT CUT-THROUGHS FEATURING THE GAME. HE WAS A MENACE THROUGHOUT, AND ONLY THE DETERMINED TACKLING OF TURNER SAVED THE CLUB LINE TIME AND AGAIN.

THE NAVY BACKS COMBINED BRILLIANTLY AND THEIR PASSING WAS SUPERB THROUGHOUT.

Rigg played one of his best games among the Club backs, and scored two very good tries. His second try was one of the best seen on the ground for some time.

Munro was very prominent among the forwards, and on his recent displays is almost a certainty for the Interport early next year. He was also responsible for two good tries.

McGilchrist, Griffiths and Robertson were all well up to standard, and held their own against the Navy backs. Robertson's kicking was featured throughout the game, while Griffiths and McGilchrist tackled well.

Moore and Turner worked hard behind the scrum, Turner bringing off several thrilling runs, two of which eventually resulted in tries. He was the only three-quarter fast enough to catch Howell-Davies.

Castleton, Munro, Stewart, and Cummings worked hard in the pack, while McLellan, who was injured early in the game, also lent his weight.

Franks Prominent Franks the Navy centre three-quarter was again in the limelight, his handling being excellent at all times of the game, while he was difficult to pass.

SOCCER MATCH IS ABANDONED

UGLY INCIDENTS AT HAPPY VALLEY

BORDERERS DRAW WITH CLUB IN LAST LEAGUE GAME

FRAYED tempers between Athletic and Lincolns' players, resulted in a tremendous crowd of Chinese spectators twice rushing the pitch during the Second Division encounter between these two teams yesterday. The game was eventually abandoned by the Referee following the second demonstration, 10 minutes before full time.

Leading by the odd goal in three, the Borderers were unlucky to draw with the Club in their farewell premier League appearance at Sookunpo yesterday, when Pote-Hunt equalised from a penalty in the last minute.

South China "B" beat the Navy in a very uninteresting game at Caroline Hill, while the Lincolns swamped the Artillery at Chatham Road.

The best senior game was seen at Kowloon, where the Athletic won a thrilling encounter against the home Club by the odd goal in five.

THE AIR FORCE STAGED A COMEBACK IN THE THIRD DIVISION, AND ARE AGAIN IN A CHALLENGING POSITION FOR THE DIVISION LEADERSHIP, BEING ONE POINT BEHIND THE BORDERERS WITH A GAME IN HAND.

WILSON PROVES HIS WORTH IN KOWLOON PREMIER ELEVEN

PENALTY SAVES CLUB FROM DEFEAT

Unfortunate Incident In Closing Stages

A penalty goal scored in the last few moments of the game saved the Club from defeat at the hands of the Borderers yesterday, in their premier League game at Sookunpo, which resulted in a draw of two goals each.

The score was a fair indication of the run of the play. The Borderers ran through from the opening whistle, and it looked as though the game was a foregone conclusion, as in the space of a few minutes Roger was called upon to save really good shots from Fortey, Duncan, Mullane and Mathias.

Fortey missed a sitter when Mathias put in a fine centre across the goal-mouth.

Club Score First Soon after the start the Club opened the scoring with a surprise goal.

The Borderers were pressing very hard and the ball was cleared to Fowler, who ran up the right wing and flashed across a fine drive, the ball curving past the surprised Smith into the net.

The soldiers, seemingly incensed at this unexpected offset, became very aggressive and for about 10 minutes were never out of the Club's area. Eventually Jones received the ball and centred for Syd Strange to mislead and allow Mullane to dash in and equalise with a fast shot. Jones had hard luck a moment or so later when he headed a fine corner kick over the top. Just before half-time Mathias centred for Jones to place the Borderers in the lead.

Crossing over a goal in arrears, the Club played up, and time and again the forwards ran through the Borderers' defence only to fail at the crucial moment.

E. Strange missed a golden opportunity when he asked a ball when practically on the goal-line.

Unfortunate Accident Fowler had hard luck with a nice effort which just grazed the bar. Just before time an unfortunate incident occurred. Herbert, who had been playing exceedingly fine football, slipped and fell on the ball, the referee awarding a penalty kick.

Pote-Hunt took the kick and shot straight at Smith, who got his hands to the ball, but let it slip into the net.

Club: Rodgers, Gamble, S. Strange; Travlin, Pote-Hunt, Baldwin; Fowler, Brown, Howe, E. Strange and Duncan. Borderers: Smith, Herbert, Morrison; Davies, Podmore, Underwood; Mathias, Mullane, Fortey, Jones and Duncan.

Among the Kowloon forwards, G. White was outstandingly good. Fearful methods, combined with clever anticipation, made him Smith's greatest danger, and, in consequence, he received plenty of attention. Elliot and V. White made most of their opportunities and both Whiteland and Knox were accurate in their control from the wings.

First Division LINCOLNS DEFEAT ARTILLERY

Higgins' "Hat Trick" After Early Lead

MEAKIN SHINES IN GOAL

At King's Park yesterday the Lincolns trounced the Artillery by 4 goals to nil in their First Division League encounter.

Ridley opened the scoring only a few minutes from the commencement of the game, and encouraged the Lincolns to carry out further serious bombardments on the Artillery defence.

It was during a similar skirmish around the Gunners danger zone that Higgins scored the first of three goals to his credit.

Malpas sent in a stinger for Durham to gather, but he fumbled and Higgins rushed in and netted in a flash.

On the resumption, the Gunners endeavoured to reduce their arrears, but, despite several serious attacks, they could not score, due partly to good saves by Meakin the Lincolns' goalkeeper.

MINU'S MATCH AT THE K.C.C.

SCORES 60 AND TAKES 5 FOR 17 IN DRAWN GAME
Seventh Wicket Stand With M. P. Madar
KOWLOON LUCKY

The Kowloon Cricket Club were lucky to force a draw with the Indian Recreation Club in their premier league cricket match at the K.C.C. yesterday. When stumps were drawn they were 119 in arrears with two wickets in hand.

After losing their first six wickets for 52 runs, A. R. Minu (60) and M. P. Madar (34) saved the I.R.C. by making a seventh wicket stand of 84 runs. Minu's innings was the feature of the game, his six off a short pitched ball from F. S. W. Smith being a perfectly timed shot. He also hit nine fours, scoring freely all round the wicket.

The reputedly strong K.C.C. batting collapsed before the attack of Minu (6 for 17) and Pereira.

TERROR GANGS OF BALKANS Tentacles That Run Through Europe Cold-Blooded Men Who Kill For Political Intrigue

(By G. WARD PRICE)

IN England we smile at secret societies; in the Balkans they shiver. Through the political life of this part of Europe run hidden tentacles of terror. They stretch far beyond the frontiers of the countries from which they start. One seized upon King Alexander in Marseilles last month; another was waiting for him in Paris.

King Boris of Bulgaria has not dared to come to Belgrade to attend the funeral of the King who was his guest in September, for not even the feverish investigations of the Yugoslav police can make it certain that there is not a murder gang waiting here in Belgrade to add another Balkan monarch to its victims.

Ruthless Killers

Lausanne is one of the foreign headquarters of these desperate, cold-blooded men who kill not from personal hatred or for individual gain but as a measure of calculated political intrigue.

Britons on Continental holidays may easily have brushed shoulders without knowing it in some cafe or railway station of Switzerland, France, or Italy with members of these Balkan nationalist organisations who are as ruthless killers as the fiercest gunmen in Chicago.

The two most powerful of the terrorist societies have been much mentioned in connection with the murder of King Alexander. They are IMRO and the USTASHI. The assassin Kalem, or Georgiev, as his real name is now believed to be, was a member of IMRO or "Internal Macedonian Revolutionary Organisation." He bore its badge tattooed upon his arm—a skull and cross-bones with the letters "V.M.R." which stand for the Bulgarian words "Vatreshna Makedonska Revolyutsionna Organizatsia."

A Working Alliance

This club is two generations old. It works for the incorporation of the whole of Macedonia with Bulgaria.

The USTASHI society is a post-war creation. The word means "bound by oath," and the members belong to that disaffected Croatian intelligentsia which aims at independence from Yugoslavia.

Four years ago these two terrorist leagues formed a working alliance against Yugoslavia. Both of them apparently had a hand in the death of King Alexander.

One of the conditions which led up to the reconciliation between the Bulgars and Yugoslavs, which was the dead King's last political achievement, was that IMRO should be dissolved and disarmed by the Bulgarian Government. Until then the organisation had been a recognised power in the land.

Even in Sofia the police never dared to interfere with its members. The death sentences passed in secret council upon their political opponents were carried out at high noon in the principal streets of the capital.

Prison Raided

In the provinces, and especially in the mountainous district of Djumaya, where he lived in a fortified villa, the leader of IMRO, Mihailoff, reigned as an autocrat. He raised revenue by taxation for his own use and imposed a royalty upon the produce of tobacco, which is the main export of Bulgaria. The children in the schools were taught hatred of the Serbs, for none but members of IMRO were allowed to be teachers.

Mihailoff himself is a man of about 38, tall, well-built and unusually handsome. His rule was ruthless, although he personally never killed a man. When the little town of Nevrokop refused a subsidy that he had demanded, he raided it, opened up the prison, cut off the electric light and allowed the escaped convicts to rob and murder unhindered for three nights in succession.

Their Crime Club

The organisation under his command had its rise after the Russo-Turkish War of 1878, when Bulgaria was thwarted of its hopes of becoming a great Macedonian State which the Treaty of San Stefano had given her. The Bulgars formed a secret murder-club, to operate against the Turks or organised Macedonians who were not well disposed to union with Bulgaria.

After the world war the operations of IMRO were turned against the Yugoslavs, to whom the Peace Treaty had transferred most of Northern Macedonia.

Its two leaders were General Protogeroff and Mihailoff, who had been a minor Civil Servant. Protogeroff, whom I once met in Sofia, was much the milder man. He wanted to realise Bulgaria's aims for territorial expansion of peaceful negotiations. Mihailoff, the extremist, accordingly had his follow-chief shot by IMRO gunmen. He then sent his own wife to Vienna to shoot Protogeroff's right-hand man, Paniza.

Refuge in Turkey

She killed him in the Opera House, was arrested and tried for murder, but was released from goal on the ground of being in an advanced state of consumption.

Until May of the present year Mihailoff's tyranny in Bulgaria continued unchecked. Every week the dead bodies of his political opponents, or of those who refused his demands for money, would be found in the streets of Sofia or Philippopolis.

Then a new Bulgarian Premier, Georgiev, came to power, and he determined to make friends with Yugoslavia and to suppress IMRO. The arsenal of the organisation at Petrich was seized, and found to be almost as well equipped as that of the Bulgarian Army. The leaders were arrested, except Mihailoff himself, who took refuge in Turkey.

Recently he left Constantinople again for an unknown destination, probably Switzerland, where at Lausanne a secret branch of his organisation is believed to exist.

It is no doubt from Constantinople that Mihailoff gave the order for King Alexander's death. His gunmen required employment, and the King's policy of rapprochement with Bulgaria threatened to deprive the Macedonian revolutionary organisation of its reason for existence.

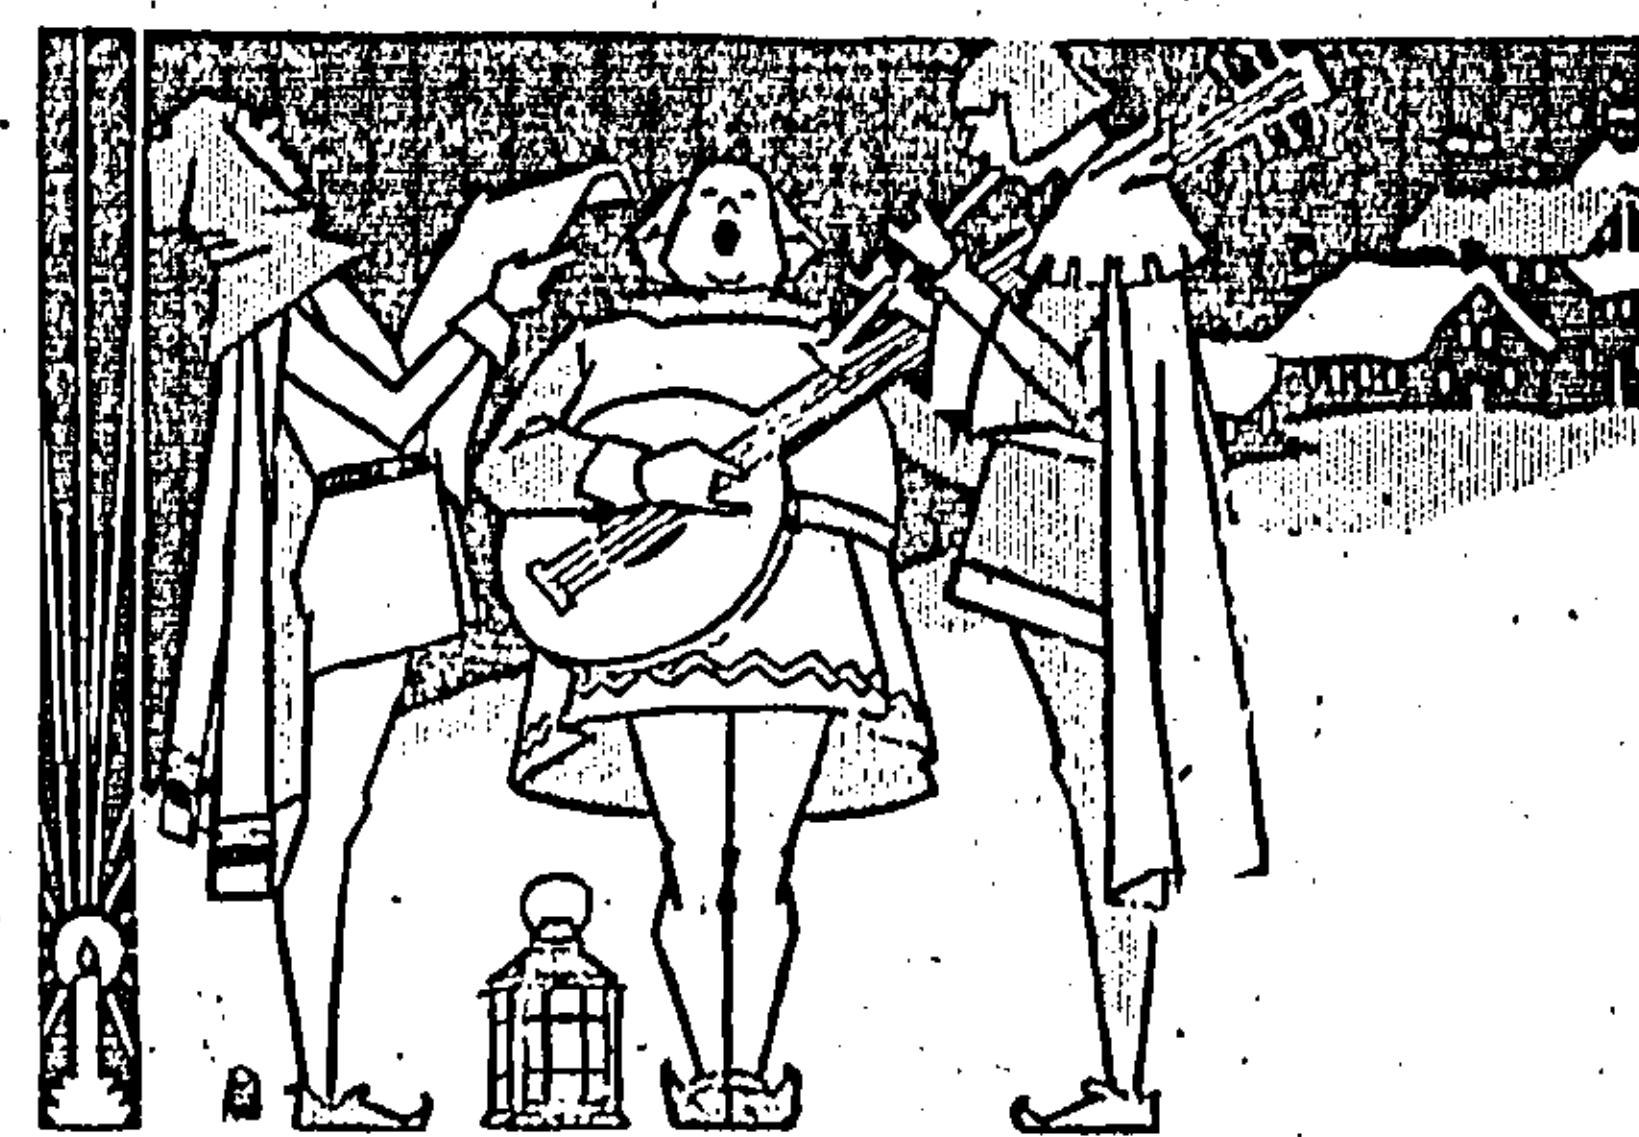

The members of IMRO, reorganised on the lines of the old Russian anarchists, are split up into groups of three, so that no one knows the names of more than two other members. One of the group acts as the link, with a superior authority through which orders come. The sternest discipline is enforced. Disobedience to orders or any attempt to leave the organisation means death.

The conspirators bear in Bulgaria the name of "Lofthanders," for their custom in public places is to keep their right hands in their pockets grasping a revolver, since they never know whether any neighbour may not be a member of the Secret Police or a follower of Protogeroff, eager to avenge his leader's death.

High Treason.
But although the man who killed King Alexander, in order to hinder the reconciliation of Bulgaria and Yugoslavia, was a Bulgarian, he had spent some years with the USTASHI, the league of disaffected Croats formed in 1927 by a young Croat and a former Parliamentary Deputy named Pavellitch, who has been sentenced to death for high treason in his absence from Yugoslavia. Pavellitch wants to see Croatia break away from Yugoslavia and join up again with Austria and Hungary in a reconstituted Federal State.

Like him, other Croat political refugees sought safety abroad. Some settled in small communities in Italy; many are in Paris; about thirty of them rented a large farm in Hungary, near the Yugoslav frontier, at a place called Janka Puzsta. Here, two years ago, as a result of the working alliance concluded between the USTASHI and IMRO they were joined by one of the most formidable killers of the latter organisation, Joseph Vlada Georgieff, the man who last week murdered King Alexander.

Georgieff had been chauffeur and bodyguard to Mihailoff, the Macedonian terrorist leader. He started his career ten years ago, when he shot a communist deputy in the open street in Sofia. He found another victim in a supporter of the rival Imro leader Protogeroff, and killed him as he ventured out for a little air in the garden of the house where he had been hiding from his assassins.

For this murder Georgieff got a sentence of life imprisonment, but two years later a political amnesty released him. It was then that he went to Hungary and is said to have become an instructor to the Croat refugees at Janka Puzsta in the use of bombs and pistols, until, at the end of last month, orders reached him to proceed to France to kill King Alexander.

He must have known that the deed would cost him his life, since it is a rule of IMRO that a murderer who cannot hope to escape shall be shot dead on the spot by two companions, detailed for that purpose, so that he may not give the secrets of the organisation away under examination.

Outrages To Come?
The records of the Croat USTASHI is not so bloodstained as that of IMRO, for it is not so large. They have sniped Yugoslav frontier guards and hidden bombs on railway trains entering Yugoslavia. They have organised gun-running expeditions along the Dalmatian coast, and one of the Croat terrorists arrested in France, Pospisil, is the man who murdered a teacher in Zagreb, who was friendly to the Yugoslav Government, and later had killed two policemen sent to arrest him.

No more formidable organisations of political violence have ever existed than IMRO and the USTASHI. Their working agreement makes them doubly dangerous, and it is to be feared that the number of their outrages is not yet complete.

NO BRITISH COMMITMENTS ON CONTINENT REVIEW OF ARMS PROBLEM

THOMAS' PLEA TO NATIONS

London, Yesterday.

The Dominions Secretary, Mr. J. H. Thomas, in a speech at Newport yesterday, said that neither directly nor indirectly was there any secret agreement which involved Britain in any commitment on the continent of Europe. They were faced with many difficulties, and elements were abroad in Europe which created the war spirit, namely suspicion, ill-will, and mistrust, but he saw no warrant or justification for the war talk now prevalent.

Dealing with the question of traffic in arms, he appreciated the anxiety felt on the subject. Britain, however, was the only country which had a licensing system for the export of armaments by means of which an effective Government control could be exercised, and to his knowledge millions of pounds worth of orders in the last three years had, in consequence of this system, been refused. They had also refused, and would continue to refuse, Government credit of any kind for the manufacture of armaments. He wished other nations would follow the example.

He would welcome an enquiry into the situation regarding the private manufacture and national control of armaments, and believed that it would show results of which they would have no reason to feel ashamed.—British Wireless Service.

INSULL JUNIOR CALLED AS FINAL WITNESS

Chicago, Yesterday.

The trial of the former "Utilities Tsar," Mr. Samuel Insull and the others who are facing charges of embezzlement, was, virtually completed yesterday, the final witness for the defence being Mr. Insull, junior, who stated that a block of Insull stock was marked up over a period of years from U.S.$10,000 to U.S.$5,000,000.

He revealed that a portion of his father's charitable donations was paid in shares and not in cash.

After the judge's summing up, the jury will consider the verdict on November 22.—Reuter.

Moscow.

Red Army commissioned officers must henceforth all learn how to fox-trot and waltz, by special order of their commander-in-chief, Klem. Voroshiloff.

In former days the Red Army commanders were not even supposed to go to the hotels which had dancing floors, let alone dance.

Now times have changed, and dancing is considered not only a healthy amusement but a good social accomplishment.

HONG KONG, SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1934.

Don Bosco

THE near approach of the opening celebration of the new Industrial School at Aberdeen, which is to be managed by the Salesian Brothers, will be more than a mere extension of the St. Louis School with which we are familiar. It will be an attempt by the Hong Kong community to discharge on an appropriate scale its duties to the children of the large class of Chinese residents who live and work here very near to the margin of subsistence. The strong family instinct which is the basis and salvation of the Chinese civilisation is liable to be balked when the family resources fall below the level at which it is possible for the children to be given a training that will make them able to earn an adequate wage at a useful trade; the helping hand that lifts them over that difficult stage does a double service to the State by deducting them from the shiftless class and adding them to the industrialists.

The Salesian method, however, has some wider aspects which are worth consideration while educational systems are so much under examination and revision as they are to-day. Training youngsters to be good citizens is not only a delicate art, but one in which ideals can be and should be constantly checked by practical results. From this standpoint the Salesian record is challenging. Of a poor peasant family, he started life with only such education as could be obtained by his own response to the opportunities given by endowed institutions to those who are unable to pay fees, and a quickly sympathetic imagination. His special interest was in boys who had to overcome the same barriers of poverty, and his object was to enable them by their own earnings to climb out of the "submerged tenth," as that class was called before the days of free schools in England. Most of the writers of books on education approach the subject with the desire to elicit from the facts some general theory; and they naturally, as Professor Forster has just reminded us in his lecture on Thursday, draw a distinction between a "liberal" and a "vocational" curriculum. It is no bad thing to have the experience of a man who started from the other end; beginning with personal interest in individual boys and girls; and starting them off on the search for some handicraft that will enable them to avoid that state of poverty which they first met him, was their most vivid impression of life. Each step in the development of his work has been the result of the individual contact of teacher with pupil; and not only is the school instituted by the founder still flourishing, but a teaching Order has grown into vigorous prosperity with over six hundred similar schools dotted about the world in the most unpromising neighbourhoods.

Surely the root principle of all education is that success must be built on the foundation of the pupil's interest. Once aroused that and even drudgery acquires a halo which transforms it as by "some sea-change, rich and strange." The first result is that the teacher having gained the learner's confidence, as being able to disclose the key to new activities that quite evidently make life more worth living, he can go on to teach other things that have not so obvious a justification, because the learner will take it for granted that the teacher knows better than he does. There is no need for a vocational training to stop at a routine method of earning wages. The teacher who is going to be given a responsible position in the Salesian Order must be something of a specialist. Everybody needs boots; then let the best possible boots be made. That involves first of all getting the best possible leather. What sort of hide is the best? Where does it come from? (These questions need some acquaintance with cattle raising and geography and marketing). Then there is the distinction between the pliable upper and the resistant sole. And after that the cutting out. (Steadiness of hand, and use of tools). Then the applicant must come and be measured. (Accuracy). And the customer is a human being who probably has some idiosyncrasies that are very quickly revealed when he begins to talk; he may become quite a friend; and he will talk over more freely when he comes to be fitted on, and small adjustments have to be made. Meantime the tanning process has been conducted with necessary leisure. (Some Elementary Chemistry, which will open up vistas of more elaborate combinations). Is the best tanning agent got from wattle bark? Then let us plant some wattle trees and watch them grow. (Forestry). Fashions change, and boots have a history. The boots may cost a bit more in cash, but they fit like a glove, and last for ever, and have put the maker into touch with much instruction that is usually thought to be only accessible by "liberal" teaching that often fails to get to the practical applications at all.

The PASSING HOUR by A. N. M.

CHINESE FAIRY TALES

IN good time before the Christmas season Mr. A. S. Konyo has brought out four delicately elegant little booklets illustrated in a slightly modernised version of the Chinese style, each containing a genuine Chinese fairy story out of the inexhaustible riches of the traditional folk-lore. They are the work of Phyllis Juby, who has already served an apprenticeship in this enchanting form of authorship by collecting folk tales of South Africa. The titles are "Hal, and the Fairy Monster," "The Priest, the Moonmaid, and the Fool's Magic," "The Stone Monkey," and "The Mysterious Boat-Girl." Each is issued in make-up which will in itself be enough to attract any child, and they are published at a very moderate price. They can be had from Messrs. Komer and Komer, or Messrs. Kelly and Walsh.

THE HOUSE OF ROTHSCHILD

THERE was only one opinion as to the triumph of George Arliss in the film which has been filling the King's Theatre last week. He had clearly imagined a consistent character, and if sympathy with it on racial and political grounds inspired him with a verve which was able to lift him above even his own high standard of acting, so much the better. The advantage of films that are based on history without losing their human interest is that they set us discussing the questions of historical veracity and the bearing of anyone event on contemporary problems with a much keener sense of reality than we usually derive from reading books. In outline of course there is no possibility of departing from so well-known a history; and it happens that it is in itself sufficiently dramatic. Inevitably Nathan's career was somewhat sentimentalised. The rival financiers do not cut too fine a figure; but the house of Rothschild was not by any means the only group of rich men that risked their all on the success of "the Duke."

(By the way it was a triumph to find a man who looked the very double of the Duke, and who could also act.) But a rather more crucial question is, did he really say all those things in ignorance of the result? The pigeon post is slightly overworked; for during the earlier part of the battle of Waterloo "the Wizard" was himself in Brussels; it was only when he had early and reliable news that Blucher had actually got back from Ligny (in accordance with a plan concocted with Wellington, who had hidden over to meet him before daybreak), and then that the charge of the Guards had been repulsed, that he set off on a fast horse to the coast where a boat was waiting for him, and made his way to the Exchange in his travel-stained clothes. After all the purchase of Government stock at a third of its value when he knew that no further loans would be required for war purposes is not quite the same thing as buying in the dark to support national credit.

PROGRESS IN PLANE DESIGN

MODERN TYPES FOR NEW EMPIRE ROUTE

ALL-ROUND IMPROVEMENT

WHEN Mr. McPherson Robertson suggested an air race to be part of the Centenary Celebrations of the city of Melbourne he could have had little realisation of the enormous world wide interest which the event aroused. Keenly interested in aviation, Mr. Robertson's idea was originally to hold a race around the continent of Australia. He thought it would be a good idea to invite the crack pilots of other nations to take part; in fact, why should they not race to Australia by air? That is how the idea was born. I is destined, undoubtedly, to have a tremendous influence on the development of aviation in the next few years, both from a civil and military point of view.

There are scoffers, of course, who regarded the whole affair as foolhardiness and not only did not believe that the race would be successfully concluded, but could not believe that even if it was it could serve any useful purpose towards development in aviation. It was most surprising to find Hor. Fokker, the famous Dutch designer, taking this viewpoint.

Aviation at the present time, in spite of the wonderful things that have been achieved, is still in its very infancy and there is much to be learned about the possibilities and limitations of such aircraft as are at present evolved, and the details of various designs. The air race has taught the world of aviation more than could be learned in many months of plodding on things about engine endurance, constructional strength and minor improvements of design which cannot be learned under ordinary flying conditions. We are too prone to consider that the pioneering days of aviation are over. One the contrary, they are really only just beginning and these pilots who took part in the Centenary Race are to be numbered among the pioneers.

The First Flight

The first flight over the England-Australia route was made in 1919 by Sir Ross Smith and Sir Keith Smith. They took 29 days and their feat was regarded then as the very last word in high speed travel. But it was a hazardous journey and was not attempted again until 1926, when Sir Alan Cobham did the journey both ways.

Hong Kong Personalities

CAV. UFF. A. BIANCONI

This is the sixteenth of the exclusive "Sunday Herald" series of sketches of leading Colony residents by Mr. A. S. Konyo, the talented Hungarian artist.

ONE of Hong Kong's two bachelors Consul-Generals, Cav. Uff. A. Bianconi, who represents the Fascist State in the Colony, is one of the most popular members of the local Consular body.

Gifted with a ready wit and a fund of reminiscence, he is also one of the most travelled of the foreign representatives here. Since he describes travel "as the most delightful of all recreations," his often onerous duties are after his own heart.

Since graduating in Berlin in 1908, his travels have taken him from the extreme West to the Far East. He was appointed to the Italian Diplomatic Corps in 1912, as a Vice-Consul at New York, and four years later, in the turbulent years of the War, he was holding similar posts in South America. He was Vice-Consul at Santos, Brazil, in 1916, and at Bahia in 1917, and, subsequently, became acting-Consul while in Brazil. He returned to Italy and joined the forces at the front during the latter part of the War but his services were required in other directions, and after a few months, he was drafted back to the Diplomatic Service.

His next post was in Algiers, and from there he went to Malaga, in Spain. Continuing his roving career, he then went to Switzerland, and was stationed, among other places, at Davos, Platz, and Zurich. At the latter place he was acting Vice-Consul.

HONG KONG AND THE NEW TERRITORIES. — No. 130

Autumn Migrants

At this time of the year flocks of birds migrating southwards fly over Hong Kong island at night. On several successive nights strange cries have been heard but whether made by geese, or duck or other birds we do not know. On the 13th a bird was picked up on the Peak, it was in a very exhausted condition and made no attempt to escape. The bird proved to be a female of Gallinago caurina the Water-Cock or Field Chicken. Water and every possible type of food was offered to the bird but it refused everything except some tasty morsels as dragonfly larvae, fresh-water shrimps and tadpoles. The bird is still alive at the time of writing but is in a very shaky condition. This species is resident in the whole of China during the summer months migrating to the Philippines, the Malay Peninsula and India in the autumn. How far this bird had flown before it settled, exhausted, on the Peak it is impossible to say; one wonders how many such migrants fall by the wayside and fail to reach their destination.

the Praying Mantids, Mantidae, but unlike the mantis which is carnivorous (or rather insectivorous), the Stick Insect is a strict vegetarian. These two families of insects are amongst the most interesting found in the Colony but the Mantids are much commoner than stick insects. Both families belong to that order of insects the Orthoptera which includes, also the Earwigs, Cockroaches, Grasshoppers and Locusts; none of these are beetles.

The common Praying Mantid, green or brown in colour, encloses its eggs in an egg-case. "The eggs are laid and simultaneously surrounded with a frothy substance that hardens on exposure to the air; but before this takes place the mass is moulded into a shape peculiar to the species by the action of the tips of the wings," so writes Mr. N. D. Riley. These egg-cases are common in Hong Kong and we are frequently asked what they may be.

The Stick Insect lays its eggs singly in a seed-like capsule dropped haphazard amongst the foliage. These eggs are the oddest looking structures—ovoid with a flattened end bordered by a rim and in the centre of the flattened disc is a knob shaped like a door-stop. When the young Stick Insect hatches, it pushes off the lid and steps out into the world. But there is another odd thing about Stick Insects. Males are rare and virgin females lay eggs which develop—this parthenogenesis is rare amongst animals as highly organised as these insects. And there is still another odd feature—their power of regeneration is highly developed and if a leg is broken off a new one grows to take its place. A convenient arrangement but it has its drawbacks because if an antenna is broken off a leg develops to take its place which much render the insects somewhat unbalanced.

These notes on the Stick Insect are given here because we have found two in our garden this last week. Whilst we were watering some lettuce a twig, or what seemed to be a twig, moved volitionally betraying the presence of a Stick Insect. A similar incident happened three days later and thus two of these curious brown-insects were added to our collection.

XMAS AND NEW YEAR PARCEL MAIL

Heavy Posting Of Small Packages

COLONY G.P.O. FIGURES

Although the figures indicate a decrease of over 600 parcels in comparison to last year, the Christmas and New Year parcel mail to the United Kingdom, the last batch of which left the Colony on the P. and O. s.s. Chitral yesterday, at noon, is considered to be equivalent to that of last year.

This year, an exceptionally large number of small parcels for letter post have been received suggesting that small parcels, under two lbs. weight, are preferred to the larger parcels.

The Christmas parcel mail closed on November 10, and the New Year parcel mail yesterday. The Christmas letter mail closes on Tuesday.

The following is a comparison of figures:—

"PEOPLE TO-DAY ARE LIVING IN AGE OF DOUBT"

Author's Appeal For Faith
STRIKING LECTURE

In a striking lecture at the Seventh-Day Adventist Chapel, No. 8 Arbutnot Road, yesterday afternoon, the Rev. Frederick Lee, Shanghai, author and lecturer, urged his audience to return to their belief in a personal God and in the inspiration of the Word of God.

Taking "A Faithless Generation" as his subject, the speaker said that the evolutionary teaching of to-day and had broken down faith and confidence in everything so that the world to-day is drifting into dangerous water without a chart or compass.

"These are signs of the last days just before the coming of Christ," he declared.

Deploping the present generation's wavering faith in the true God, the speaker quoted Aldous Huxley, the noted writer:

"Our time is afflicted with a strange incertitude. This wavering of mind is as much the cause as the result of our present distress—we are in a word, without generally accepted faith."

He also quoted P. W. Wilson, an outstanding writer: "The Faith of man is everywhere in a ferment."

He went on to say that people of to-day are living in an age of doubt, and when people lose their faith and confidence they begin to seek comfort and pleasure in novels and movies. When they lose all their tastes in life they have no desire to live, with the result that suicides are rampant.

Mr. Lee, who is the editor of the "Signs of the Times," a Shanghai publication, will deliver further lectures prior to his return to Shanghai on December 16.

War Is Parallel Of Life Battle

"Parable" Of Battle Of Cambrai

No Room For Slackers

(By the Rev. J. N. Lewis Bryan.)

TUESDAY next, November 20, is the anniversary of the Battle of Cambrai. In the light of other engagements in the Great War, it probably takes a somewhat minor place, yet at the time it had far reaching effects, and ultimately had a direct bearing on the issue of the whole campaign.

It is not altogether, however, on that account, that I am writing about it this morning, although with the anniversary of Armistice Day still within our memories it is not out of place, but because it resembles in many ways, the battle of life, which we have to fight, every day we live.

Three years of the war had passed, and both sides had settled down to trench warfare, broken by an occasional attack in the open, which usually ended with no very decisive result, except tremendous loss of life. The problem then became how to move men over barbed wire and trenches, immune from machine gun and artillery fire.

With the evolution of the tank, something at last seemed possible. They had never been really exploited, since the first occasion on which they were used, and the mud swamps of the Salient had almost seen their end. Here was their great opportunity. If they failed here, it was to be their last.

In October 1917, any night, however prudent, might have gone to the village of Gouzeourt, and looked out with perfect safety towards the German lines which lay beyond the slopes to the north and east, protected by broad salients of barbed wire, which would have taken millions of shells to cut during weeks of steady bombardment.

The country in front of our lines was little cut up by shells, and it was decided that here a tank action was to be fought. Secretly and silently from October 20 the chance was built up, and on the night of November 19 all was ready.

The Triumph of Tanks
The day before the battle, the G.O.C. of the Corps sent around the following order: "To-morrow the Corps will have the chance, for which it has waited for months, to operate in good going in the van of the battle." The tale of that action is the story of how the Tank Corps came into its own on the rolling downlands in front of Cambrai.

The tanks were to go forward without an Artillery barrage, cut the barbed wire entanglements, let the Infantry through, and then push off for Cambrai and Bourlon Wood, cross the Sennece River, and go make for Valenciennes. A flag and a motto were struck for the occasion. The flag was brown and red and green, to correspond with the motto, "Through the mud of the trenches, and the blood of sacrifice, to the green field beyond." There was, however, one stupendous obstacle to be overcome—the crossing of the Hindenburg line—the most strongly fortified position in military history. As the tanks were only 10 feet in span, and the line 12 feet wide some device had to be evolved so as to enable them to cross. Great bundles of brush-wood called "fascines," 10 feet long by 4 in diameter, were therefore made and carried on top of the tanks. By the movement of a lever, they could then be dropped into the trench, and a crossing effected.

Nine Battalions of tanks, six Infantry divisions, one Cavalry Corps, and 1,000 guns were used on a front of 18,000 yards that stretched between two Canals.

The Dawn Attack
At 6.20 on the morning of November 20, in the cold grey light of a misty dawn, the tanks crept out to the attack. General Elles, led the advance in the first tank of the centre Division. Never before in this war, had a General gone forward in the van. After seeing the first objectives taken he had to return to a more central point to keep in touch with all phases of the battle.

Everywhere it was a colossal success. By 10 o'clock the Hindenburg line had been broken all along the front, 5,000 prisoners had been captured in addition to over 100 guns, and all kinds of material of war. The effects of the action were greeted in England by the ringing of joy bells. They tolled, though they did not realise it, the beginning of a new epoch. After nine months of fighting, the Hindenburg line lay like a dam across the stream of victory. All attempts to turn the enemy's right at Ypres had been checked, and now suddenly "between dawn and 10 o'clock on a November morning, the tanks had smashed their way through with the very minimum of loss. And in that fact lay the germ of ultimate victory.

The Battle of Life
Of all metaphors used to represent the life of man, that of warfare most nearly approximates to truth. Life is one continuous battle from the cradle to the grave, within ourselves, and in the world outside.—It is a job that calls out the best and truest and holiest of which we are capable. There is no room for scoundrels, and slackers. Anyway they soon go to the wall, because they have not the grit to see it through. We have got to face the mud of temptation, it may cost us the red blood of sacrifice, but beyond lie the green fields when the battle is over and done.

We have not to fight alone. By our side there stands One Who has never lost a fight down all the history of the years, Who has never to turn back when we may need Him most. And when we come to the Hindenburg line in our experience, we too, have "fascines" to help us. We have the Sword of the Spirit which is the Word of God, the record of how His servants in other ages fought and won. There is the record of His own peerless life to help and strengthen us. Then there is Prayer, by which we keep in living touch with Him. There are all the means of grace, and all the hope of glory.

"Battle History Sheets"
When the day was over and the tanks gathered at their rendezvous, there came the compilation of what was called "The Battle History Sheet"—the record of each machine's expenditure of petrol, oil and ammunition, the course it had taken and the part it had played in every detail of that day.

At the end of the battle of life we too have to face our Battle History Sheet. They are things of which we may be proud, or they can be the reverse. They will show, with unerring accuracy how we fell short, or how we gained our objectives. How we won through, or how we failed our Master.

How they will read depends entirely upon ourselves.

If the Smiths blazed the trail, Cobham may be said to have achieved the focussing of world attention on the possibilities of long-distance air services. As long ago as then the idea of an Australia service was toyed with by the visionaries. Then Amy Johnson made her flight and set up the first official record over the route, in 1930. Since then the record has been lowered on six separate occasions, and very long. It is an 18-seater many other attempts have been made previous to the air race but necessary to provide accommodation have failed. The last record was set by Charles Ulm's 6 days 17 hours and 56 minutes, set up just a year ago.

Progress in Design
British progress in the design and construction of passenger air-craft of flying night and day over the liners is strikingly illustrated by a comparison which is now possible between the latest craft of the "Diana" type and a machine such as the D.H. 18, one of the first air-craft to be built for regular air transport on the routes between London and the continent.

Machines of the "Diana" type are to be used on the new Malaya-Australia extension of the Empire route, which is to be inaugurated in December. The D.H. 18, which was put into service between London and Paris in 1922, was driven by a single 450 h.p. engine, and carried a paying load of 1,100 lbs. at a maximum speed of 115 miles-an-hour, and at a cruising speed of 95 miles-an-hour. In contrast to this, the modern "Diana" type of machine, which is driven by four engines developing a total of 800 h.p., carries a payload of 3,147 lbs. at a maximum speed of 170 miles-an-hour, and a cruising speed of 145 miles-an-hour.

Actually the increased reliability of the four engines in the "Diana" machines—any two of them maintaining the machine in flight when carrying a full load—together with the increase in cruising speed of 50 miles-an-hour, have been accompanied by the fact that, whereas the payload per horse-power of the D.H. 18 was 2.4 lbs., that of the "Diana" machines is 3.9 lbs.

Constructional progress, in the twelve years from 1922 to 1934, is demonstrated by the fact that whereas the D.H. 18, built to carry six passengers and a crew of two, weighed 7,200 lbs., a machine of the "Diana" class, designed to carry 10 passengers and a crew of two, does not weigh more than 6,351 lbs., even when incorporating all the factors of structural security which are an essential feature of British air design. This means that the factor of weight per horse-power has been reduced from 16 lbs. to 7.9 lbs.

It is specially noteworthy, also that these improvements in commercial performance have been accompanied by a remarkable all-round increase in the comfort of passengers, as is evidenced by modern luxury air saloons with their sumptuous fittings, full catering service, and noise reduction, even when flying at high speeds.

K.L.M.'s Ambitious Plan
A new K.L.M. plane, the Fokker 38, will be put into service on the Amsterdam to Batavia route before the end of the year. It is an 18-seater machine and can be adapted if necessary to provide accommodation for a rather smaller number of passengers for night flying. It is the type of machine which will be in service when the K.L.M. enters on their ambitious programme of flying night and day over the world.

It will be fresh in the memories of those who have followed the development of the air mail service in the Far East how the K.L.M. planned a special experimental three-days flight last Christmas, but the special plane met with a mishap in taking off and was left. The Pelikan, one of the ordinary service planes in use on the route, was brought into service, and accomplished the double journey without any sort of trouble at all.

This splendid achievement surprised the K.L.M. authorities as much as it amazed the rest of the world of aviation, but it caused them to go ahead much more confidently with their plans for speeding up the service by carrying out night flying, and not long ago it was stated in authoritative quarters at home that the new three-days service will be in operation early in the new year. As no official statement has yet been issued by the K.L.M., it remains to be seen.

WOMAN DIES WHILE DANCING

Shock For Partner At Bohemian Function

At a dance at Vesel, near Lutzenitz, in Bohemia, a man found that the woman in his arms was dead.

The sports club had organised a dance, and Marie Jelinkova, aged 29, came with her husband and his friends.

During the evening she waltzed with Karel Eleder, her husband's friend.

After a few turns Eleder found the woman very heavy in his arms, and apparently giddy.

At first he thought she had fainted. A doctor present said she had died of heart failure.

THE PASSING HOUR

called Consols by a slight anticipation of history, made an unassailable foundation for the work of an "Issuing House", in which capacity the Rothschild's led the market for half a century. Perhaps the last of the loans that really made history under the Rothschild name was the loan to Cecil Rhodes that enabled him to buy out Barney Barnato and the "Fronch Company" and amalgamate De Beers. It need hardly be said that the reputation of the house for honest prospectuses and fulfilment of bargains was always high; and when big financial concerns were scarcer than to-day their function was very useful both to Governments and to industry as it rapidly expanded. As the years passed the leading position ceased to be so commanding. Partly this was because the younger generation had no longer the same will to work in the City. The collection of a wonderful menagerie at Tring, and the study of "Natural History" was certainly more interesting to a man who had all the money he wanted. But chiefly the cause was a change of method. A promoter of a company, instead of going to a capitalist to put his scrip on the market for him would go to the big Banks, the Insurance Companies, and other big investors and ask them to underwrite a number of shares which they would be willing to take up and pay for as investments. The day of the autocrat or the oligarch had passed in finance as in government, and the placing of scrip is no longer a secret mystery.

The necks of the teeth and the spaces between are danger spots. Here the enamel is thinnest and food deposits linger. Only a safe and thorough tooth-cleanser can ward off decay. That's why Dentists use and recommend Gibbs Dentifrice.

Gibbs' Dentifrice cannot scratch or wear even the most delicate enamel, yet it cleans teeth and mouth thoroughly. The fragrant foam penetrates into every nook and cranny of the teeth and mouth, under the gum edges, destroying germs and removing everything that could cause decay.

Keep your teeth perfect, your breath sweet, your mouth clean and refreshed. Change to Gibbs to-day.

U.S. ARMY BUYS 1467 WESTINGHOUSE REFRIGERATORS

The War Department of the United States has awarded a contract to the Westinghouse Company for 1467 refrigerators, in continuation of their policy of equipping their officers' quarters in various posts throughout the country with modern conveniences.

The order was given to Westinghouse only after exhaustive tests had been made of their refrigerator in competition with seven of their most prominent competitors.

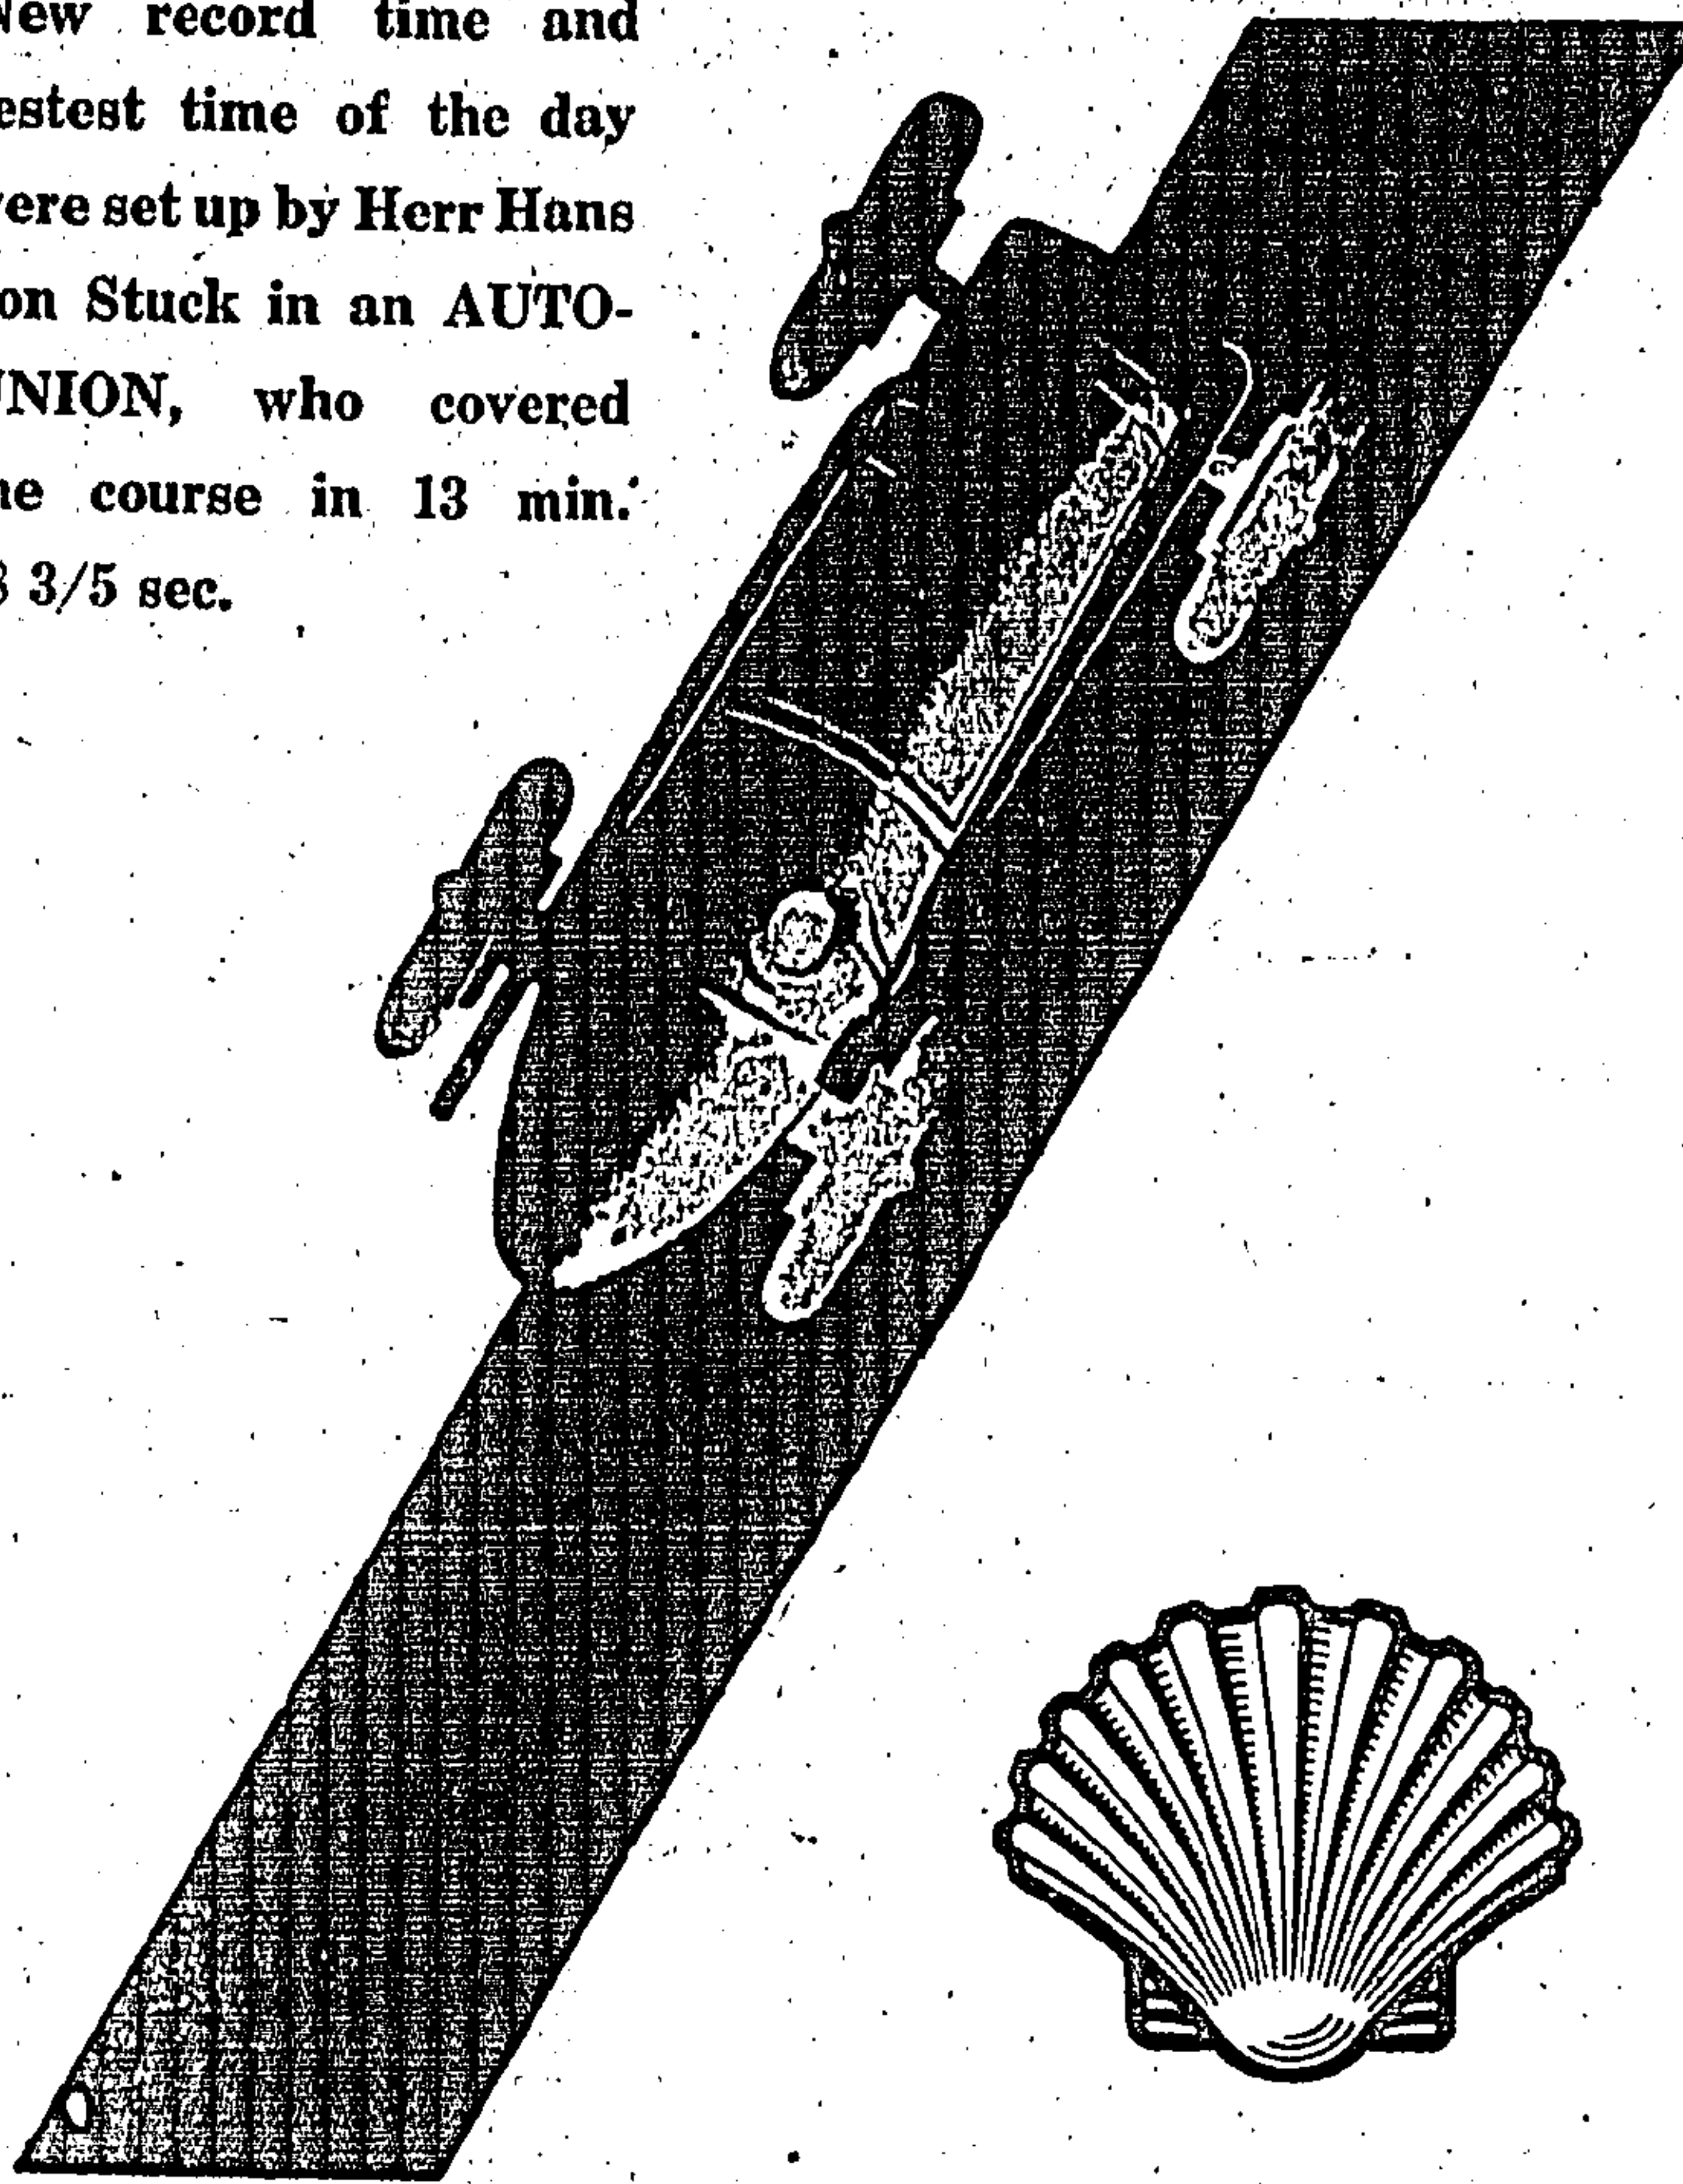

This is indeed a glowing tribute to the superiority of Westinghouse refrigerators.

First cost was not the main consideration. In the United States Army's decision to place their order for Westinghouse. Their principal concern was to obtain a refrigerator which would give them satisfaction for years to come at a minimum operating and serving cost.

BETTING FIGURES FLUCTUATE

Yesterday's Totals Show Loss On Previous Meeting

The Jockey Club must be non-plussed by the extraordinary fluctuation in their betting returns. Yesterday's figures showed a loss of $2,360 on the win betting and $14,210 on the place betting, as compared with the November 3 Meeting. The "double" figures, however, advanced $304 yesterday. The following pool figures for eight races are enlightening:

1ST TWO FAVOURITES RUN UNPLACED

CAVALCADE SUCCEEDS IN SUBS CLASSIC

ABLE AMAZON PROVES SUPERIORITY OVER ANY DISTANCE

IN a day of upsets Soldier of Britain (Mr. Deitz) confounded the critics by staying the 1 1/4 miles in the Hong Kong St. Leger yesterday. He enjoyed a meritorious win over Ribble (Mr. P. Botelho), King's Warden and Electric Star, first and second favourites, running unplaced! In the Subs classic Mr. Pih had no difficulty in bringing the favourite, Cavalcade, home first ahead of Classic Hall, while in the Freemantle St. Leger Able Amazon (Mr. Butler) proved quite convincingly that he is supreme over any distance on the local track.

Mr. Deitz carried off the riding honours with two wins, a second, and two thirds in six starts. Mr. H. C. Pih, a brother of H. M. Pih, the Shanghai rider who was seen in the saddle during the Annual Meeting, had two winners and two seconds in five starts, while Mr. Proulx had two wins in six outings. Messrs. Mackie and Grayburn proved the leading owners with a win and a second. The highest dividend of the day — $55 — was paid by Daylight Eve (Mr. Wall) in the last race, and the highest cash sweep prize was $1,295.70.

WHEN BRECHIN (MR. P. BOTELHO) DEAD-HEATED WITH OAK BAY (MR. PROULX) IN THE SECOND LEG OF THE "DOUBLE" HE CAUSED THE FIRST SPLIT IN THE HISTORY OF THE "DOUBLE" OF THE 621 SUCCESSFUL BACKERS OF YOUNG CHAP IN THE FIRST LEG. 24 SUPPORTED BRECHIN, BEING REWARDED WITH $53.80, AND 210 BACKED OAK BAY, FOR WHICH THEY RECEIVED $6.10.

Gloriously sunny weather favoured the Eleventh Extra Race Meeting—St. Leger Day—at the Valley yesterday, and a fair crowd saw Polar Star and Dinty delay the start of the Hotham Handicap.

The five ponies, however, got away to an excellent start, Portia (Mr. Proulx), fourth favourite, going right out into the lead with Dinty (Mr. Deitz), the favourite, in second place. At the football stands the pair had increased the gap between themselves and the rest of the field, but in the back straight Mr. Davis sent Empire Day into a challenging position, though still far behind.

Dinty appeared to be catching the leader after passing the Rock, but Portia came again, entered the straight two lengths ahead, and won by three lengths to surprise punters with a $63.30 dividend.

Empire Day finished a poor third, and several lengths behind was Polar Star. Vriday, second favourite, after being eager to get away at the start, disappointed his big following by coming in hopelessly last after never having looked dangerous.

Heart's Glory Wins
Fourteen of the 21 entries accepted for the Talpo Handicap over five furlongs, Heart's Glory, the second favourite, drawing the rails, and Chief Seattle, the favourite, the second position.

Heart's Glory failed to get away to a good start and it was only Mr. Deitz's skilful handling on the corner into the home straight that enabled him to beat Chief Seattle in the run in by two lengths. Boxing Eve surprised by taking third place and Great Hall, another to get a poor start, filled fourth place. Stickypast, which got away to a flying start, finished nowhere.

Hong Kong Leger

A large crowd surrounded the paddock to run their eyes over the eight Hong Kong Leger candidates, and there were several who voiced admiration of Brilliant Star's apparently good condition. Soldier of Britain and King's Warden, however, commanded the most attention, both being perfect pictures of fitness.

The eight got away to a good even start, Soldier of Britain (Mr. Deitz) going out in front, followed by Gladiator, Macaroni, Soldier of China, King's Warden, Electric Star, Ribble, and Brilliant Star in that order. The order was the same when the stands were passed for the first time, with the exception that King's Warden, the favourite, and Electric Star, second favourite, had displaced Soldier of China.

last. This order was maintained until the stands were passed for the first time when the pace was increased, Tiny Star moving up on level terms with St. Ives and Little Beauty. The trio were neck and neck up the back straight and it was not until the Rock was reached that Little Beauty failed. Tiny Star also gave way to St. Ives, who was now making his big effort. Cavalcade was then lying behind Copper Idol in fourth place.

St. Ives had a clear lead coming into the straight, but it was soon obvious that he had no finish. Cavalcade coming through with a great burst to win by four lengths from Classic Hall (Mr. Heard), who profited greatly by the slow pace earlier in the race, while Soldier of Fortune (Mr. Deitz) finished strongly to pip St. Ives on the post for third place.

Brechin Causes Upset

An upset was provided in the second leg of the "double" when Brechin (Mr. P. Botelho) dead-heated with Oak Bay (Mr. Proulx) and both Dynasty candidates ran unplaced.

Oak Bay, King's Bounty, the favourite, and King's Fancy shot away from the gate together to secure a good lead from High Speed and Brechin. At the corner into the straight it looked as if the Dunbar pony would win, but Brechin finished perfectly to share the honours after catching his rival barely 10 yards from the post. High Speed (Mr. Pih) swept past the Dynasty candidates to secure third place from King's Bounty.

The time of 1:10.4 was only a fifth of a second slower than Trentbridge's track record. Brechin's share of the "double", which was split, was $53.80, and Oak Bay's only $6.10.

Able Amazon Supreme

After having lost the two earlier St. Leger's the Kong Bros' stable could not be denied the Australian classic, and Able Amazon gave Mr. Butler his second Leger win in this class—he won on Polar Star, also from the Kong stable, in 1932. Yesterday's time was only 3 4/5 seconds faster!

After Racing Heart (Mr. Heard), who had led all round up to the Rock, was passed, there was no doubting Able Amazon's capabilities, despite a powerful finish by Bag Tor (Mr. Davis) who accounted for Racing Heart by four lengths. High Finance was fourth and Mutiny Bay last.

Able Amazon covered the last quarter in 0.28.4 to set the first 1 1/4 mile record for the new Australians—the previous Australian record being 3.25.3, as compared with yesterday's 3.21.1.

Racing Boy Unplaced

The Novices' race provided the biggest upset of the afternoon, Racing Boy, a red hot favourite, running fourth behind Jungle Jim (Mr. W. H. Choy), the Tiger (Mr. Choy Wing Chiu), and Daylight Eve (Mr. Wall). The third pony paid $55, the highest dividend of the day.

What A Chance and Daylight Eve set a fast pace with Zero on their heels, but at the Rock Daylight Eve was the only one of the

Soccer Game Abandoned

Thrilling Trio

Bliss and Gilchrist, together with Wilson, proved an effective barrier for the Chinese attack on the majority of occasions, and, in addition, formed the source from whence came Kowloon's major raids.

The Kowloon defence emerged from the fray in good order, playing a steady type of game throughout. The Chinese Athletic surprised Kowloon in the first minute of play when Fung netted after Carl had saved a curling shot from Young Kan-po in the opening run, but thereafter Kowloon settled down in sterling manner to nullify that effort.

Siu was called upon to stop fast drives from Elliot and G. White in quick succession, and at the other end Fung was equally unimpaired with a shot which struck the upright.

From a corner-kick Elliot was given possession 20 yards out, and, taking advantage of the keeper's temporary unsteadiness, snatched a shot over the heads of several Athletic defenders which just scraped through Siu's hands.

Kowloon Take Lead

During a quick Kowloon raid Knox sent in a hard high shot which Siu Tin-lin deflected across the goal for G. White to intercept with his head and give Kowloon the lead.

Play opened evenly from the re-commencement, but Ho Kar-keung flashed in the equaliser after a brilliant run, and from that point the Athletic improved.

Two close shots by Fung and Au Ping-ming and further pressure produced another goal, Ho Kar-keung scoring with Carl out of his goal.

Athletic: Siu Tin-lin; Tang Kwong-wing, Wong Sik-ping; Ho Chor-yin, Lai Kwok-chai, Ng Tak-wai; Chan Yin-chung, Yeung Kan-po, Ho Kar-keung, Au Ping-ming and Fung King-yu.

Kowloon: Cord; Everest, Eastman; Gilchrist, Wilson, Bliss; Whitehead, Elliot, G. White, V. White and Knox.

SOUTH CHINA "B" DEFEAT NAVY BY 2 CLEAR GOALS

Losers Might Have Won With Luck

TAME FINISH TO GAME

At Caroline Hill yesterday, South China "B" further strengthened their league position with a win over a strong Navy team by two goals to nil.

The win, by the way, was not so well merited as it may seem, for the Navy were dogged by atrocious luck throughout the game, and a little luck in their favour would have made a deal of difference.

The game opened with South China attacking, Lai Shui Yung going close with a good drive. For a period the Chinese had the Navy concentrated on defence, and actually should have notched a couple of goals had the forwards stended themselves.

Young Shui Yick was being piled with passes, and his centres were perfect. On one occasion, however, having dashed down the wing, he was about to slam the ball into the centre, but noticed there were no forwards up, and decide to cut in. Trickling West, he went on to beat Pepper with a well-placed shot to score a good goal.

Following this, the Navy pressed hard, and, although they had a number of chances, could not penetrate. The forwards were good up to within 40 yards of goal, where their powers appeared to desert them.

The interval came with no addition to the score. On the restart South China nearly went ahead when Tsang drove over the bar. Play degenerated somewhat, and for a time was confined to midfield. There appeared to be no likelihood of any further score, but when Pyatt handled just outside the penalty area Li Shok Yau netted with a high shot.

Shortly after Cannell netted for the Navy, but the point was disallowed for offside.

The game ended rather tamely, with the Navy pressing hard.

South China "B": Wong Wa Kai; Cheng Chi-ying and Yiu Hing-yun; Tong Kwan, Li Tak-po and Leo Kam; Young Shui-yick, Lai Shui-wing, Tsang King-ki, Li Shok Yau and Heung Young.

Navy: Pepper, Pyecroft and West; Pyatt, McGuire and Love; Baxter, Smith, Cannell, Golding and Warrmouth.

Second Division

NAVY DESERVE TO TRIUMPH

Glass Scores Twice Against R.E.

The Navy proved the better of two mediocre teams in the Second Division at Sookunpoo yesterday, and fully deserved their win against the Royal Engineers by 2 goals to 1.

Glass scored the first goal 15 minutes after the commencement when he took a pass from Dods.

Repeated attacks by the Navy proved fruitless, and the teams crossed over with the sailors one goal ahead.

Soon after the resumption Dods centred for Glass to head in the Navy's second goal. Ten minutes before the end Whitaker made a great effort by running through from the half-way line to score a fine goal.

The Engineers tried hard to equalise, but the Navy defence was too good for them.

CLUB AND KOWLOON SHARE POINTS

Dull Game And Poor Standard

In an uninteresting match the Club and Kowloon shared two goals in their Second Division encounter on the Kowloon ground yesterday.

The display of the forwards left much to be desired, for, though opportunities were provided in plenty, the number of effective scoring shots could be counted on one hand.

Play was confined to mid-field for a considerable period during the opening half. Carr gave the Club the lead when Boyes was unslighted.

After the interval the play improved for a very short while, but later deteriorated.

Pereira, the left winger, equalised for Kowloon after Winch had made a nice opening.

CROWD RUSH ON TO FIELD TWICE

Referee Abandons Game At Valley

LINCOLNS LEADING ATHLETIC

Another regrettable incident occurred at Happy Valley yesterday during the match between the Chinese Athletic and the Lincolns' second strings. Towards the end tempers became frayed, several questionable and deliberate fouls taking place, in spite of cautions from the referee, and, eventually, the game was abandoned 10 minutes from time with the Lincolns leading by two clear goals.

From the commencement the game was very keen the Chinese having the better of the opening exchanges. Later the Lincolns settled down and a hard tussle was witnessed between two evenly matched sides.

Setters opened the scoring when he received an accurate pass from Clayton.

After the interval, in spite of excellent work by Le Kwok-kee in the Chinese goal, the Lincolns increased their lead when Toyns scored.

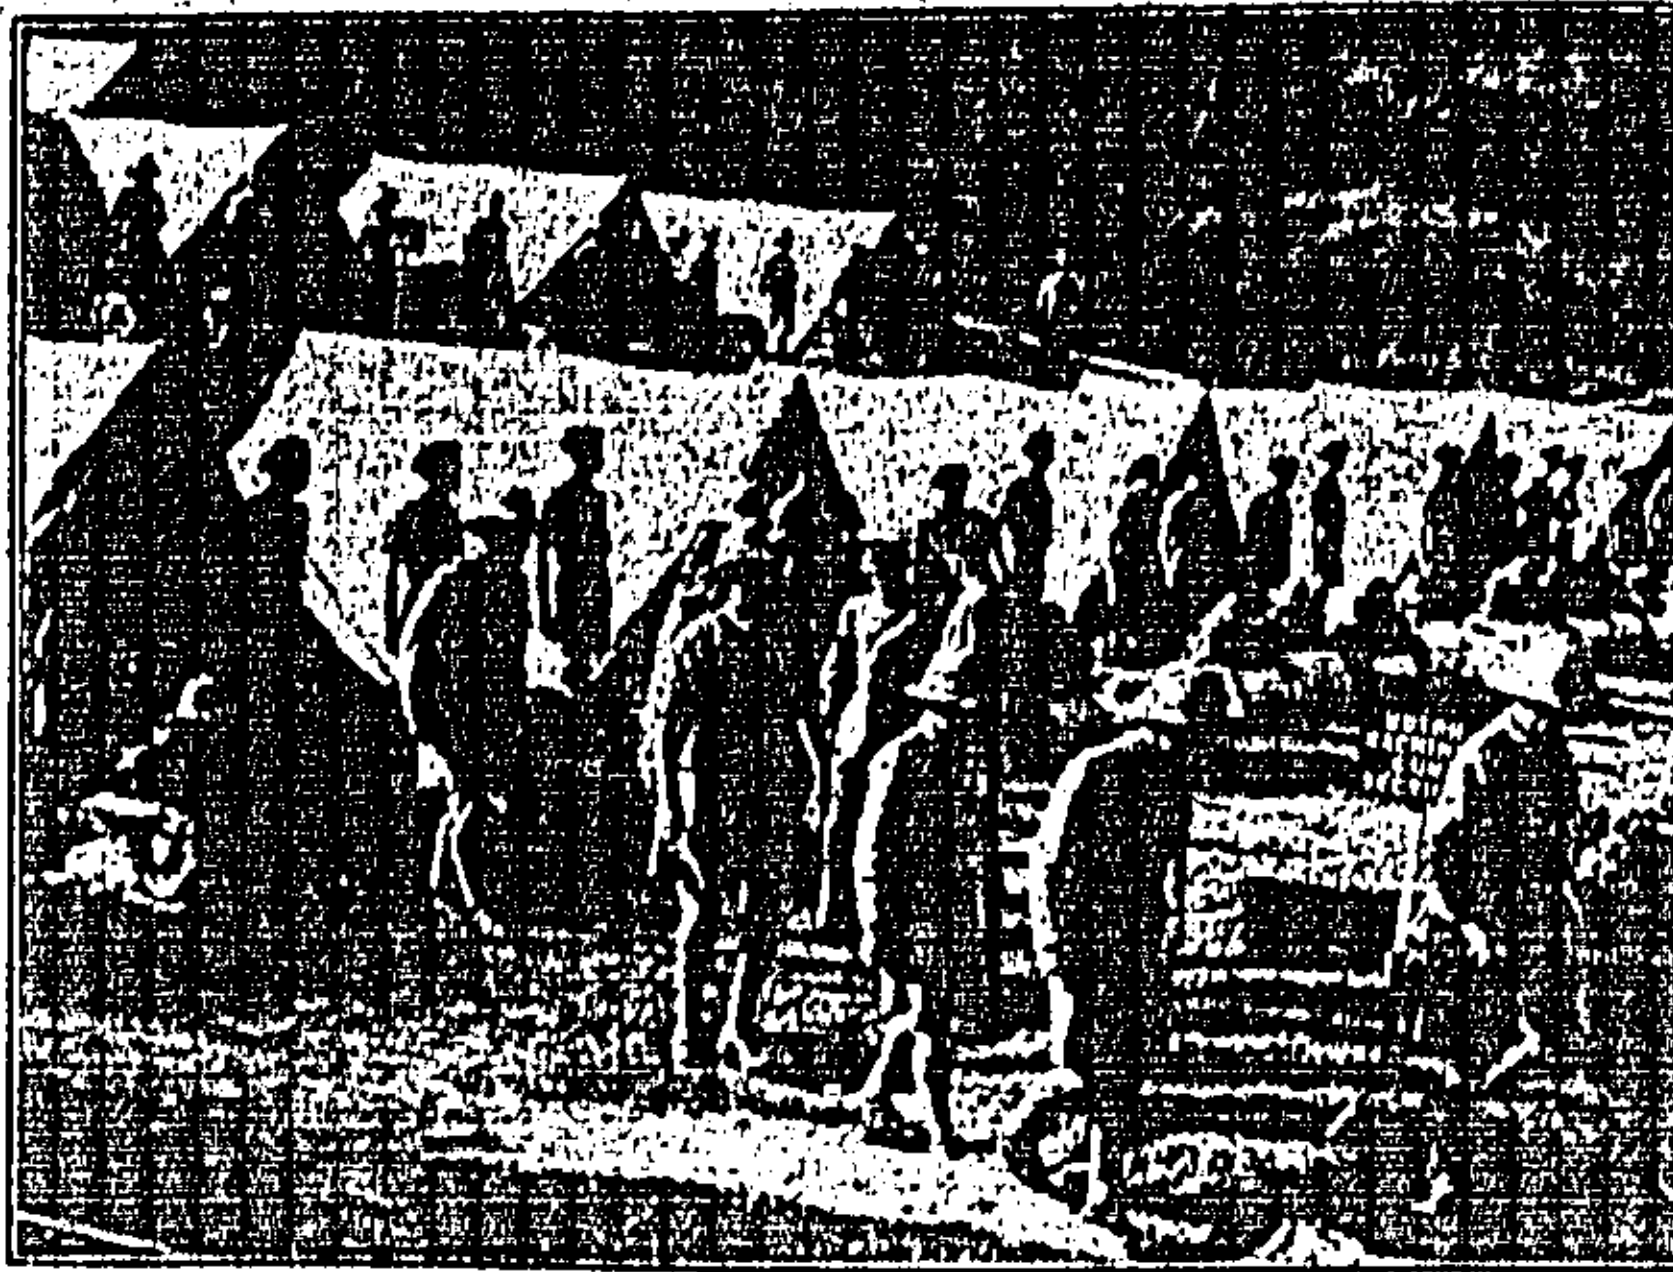

The game now became scrappy and was frequently held up by fouls on both sides.

Bad feeling became so prevalent that the players were adopting threatening attitudes, and, eventually, 10 minutes from the end, the referee was obliged to abandon play when the large crowd rushed on to the field for the second time in the course of the match.

Squadron-leader Stodart complained that he lost nearly 24 minutes at Alor Star, wading through mud to the checking point. He alleged also that officials miscalculated the time of his departure for Singapore.

Third Division

AIR FORCE'S WIN OVER BORDERERS

Late Deciding Goal

In an exciting encounter in the Third Division at Clatham Road yesterday, the Royal Air Force just managed to beat the Borderers by 2 goals to 1.

It was the Borderers' last appearance before their departure from the Colony, and they certainly played with a determination to do their best.

The Borderers scored their goal through Purcell, who ran through to beat Whittall with a very fast shot from close range.

Tait equalised for the Air Force following a smart run down the right wing.

The game looked like resulting in a draw, when just before the final whistle, Gregory smashed home the deciding goal for the Air Force from some live yards out, following a good movement along the right wing.

LINCOLNS THIRD DIVISION WIN

Medicals Outclassed

At Clatham Road yesterday the Lincolns completely outclassed the R.A.M.C. in the Third Division to score 4 goals without reply.

Rush scored in the first half, and Turner (2) and Reeson netted after the interval.

RADIO WIN OVER RAILWAY

Losers' Early Reverse

A keen and exciting game was witnessed at Kowloon yesterday, when the Radio defeated the Railway by 2 goals to nil.

The Radio's first goal was deflected off the foot of the Railway's left back, Ip Shui Ming. The second goal was scored by Singh from a centre by Oman.

ENGINEERS BEATEN IN POOR GAME

Ordnance Take Things Easily

The score of 1-0 in favour of the R.A.O.C. in their match with the Royal Engineers at Happy Valley yesterday, did not flatter them.

The Ordnance Corps were by far the better team, and should have won by a much larger margin. Weak finishing in front of goal was their main fault.

Gormley scored the only goal of the game.

TO-DAY'S FAREWELL ENCOUNTER

Borderers And S. China "A" To Clash

LEAGUE PROGRAMME

The feature of to-day's soccer programme is the farewell encounter between the South Wales Borderers and the South China Athletic Association "A" team, on the Club ground, at 3.45 p.m.

These two teams have alternately won the premier League championship since 1930, and to-day's game is the result of a request by the Battalion to meet the 1934-35 potential League champions.

The Borderers have twice held the Championship. In the 1931-32 season they secured their first win at the expense of South China, and last season created a unique record by winning the Senior Shield and the Senior League, from St. Joseph's, and with a team selected from the Regiment to represent Wales successfully in the Sunday Herald International Charity Cup competition.

South China "A" have an unbeaten record to date, and on their present form nothing can prevent them from taking the Championship for the third time since 1930, having won it previously in the 1930-31 and 1932-33 seasons.

This afternoon's game should produce some very lively football, and will provide a fitting climax to the Regiment's soccer activities in the Colony.

In the First Division, at Kowloon, the Police should secure an easy win over St. Joseph's, while in the Second Division the Artillery encounter the East Lances. An exciting struggle should ensue.

The following is to-day's programme giving the favoured team in capital letters: Borderers—Smith; Herbert and Morrison; Davies, Podmore and Underwood; Burns, Mathias, Mullins, Fortey, Jones and Thomas. South China "A"—Wong Wing; Li Tin-sang and Lau Mau; Leung In-chun, Leung Wing-chiu and Lee Kwok-wai; Two Kwai-shing.

"Y" LADIES MISS OPPORTUNITIES AGAINST C.B.A.

Miss J. Wilson effected several good clearances and was the steadiest of the two backs.

Miss Woolley Brilliant

For the Central British Association, Miss P. Woolley was brilliant in defence and broke up every one of the "Y" attacks through magnificent interception. She was ably supported by Miss Walker who was, however, slightly erratic in her clearances.

The C. B. A. forwards were far superior to their "Y" rivals in that they combined well and went for the ball instead of waiting for it to come to them. The wingers, particularly Miss R. Blackmore, who last season played for the "Y" Ladies, were good. Miss E. Woolley was the pick of the inside forwards and on several occasions nearly broke through on her own.

A MONETARY IMPASSE HAS BEEN REACHED

There is a physical and moral limit to deflation, the journal continues, and it has been very nearly, if not completely, reached by the gold bloc.

The article concludes that weakness is inherent in gold countries, i.e. the budgetary position. Increasing unemployment, overvaluing of export trade, and all maladjustments resulting from currencies over-valued beyond the reach of internal deflation render their position untenable on the long-term view, and it can only be hoped that before the strain becomes too great other countries will have moved sufficiently towards re-stabilisation to allow devaluation which will then be a conscious step to part of a general readjustment of monetary parties throughout the world.—Rout.

A.O.F.C. MARKET REPORT

Night Telegrams

The American Oriental Finance Corporation received the following cables during the night service:

The cotton market may open steady. Stocks of raw cotton in the mills in the United States and piece-goods are small in relation to current sales of grey-goods, which indicates an improving "spot" demand. Russian mill-stocks are also low. The harvest there is encountering numerous difficulties. Early ginnings are far below those of last year.

In wheat, the Chicago market may open bullish, unless prices are held down by the weakness of the foreign markets. A forecast of the weather indicates colder, but unsettled conditions.

The Corn situation is very strong.

New York Cable

The opening was irregular and very light.

Cotton, there is a good demand for December future against sales of other months. It is a small market with no pressure.

Chinese partners or shareholders in foreign firms are expected to induce their foreign colleagues to paying the tax. Many foreign business men have to depend on Chinese brokers, runner and others in carrying on business.

REVISION POSSIBLE

An official of the Provincial Department of Finance denied to-day that the business tax is "objectionable," pointing out that the tax is adapted from the business tax regulations of other countries. He blamed the foreign firms for being unable to understand the regulations and said that they would be translated into English for the benefit of the foreign merchants.

"Foreign and Chinese merchants are under the same obligation," the official stated, "if any of the regulations are deemed unfair or impracticable they can be revised."

Should foreign firms continue to refuse to pay the tax, drastic measures, it is stated, will be taken to enforce payment. Foreign merchants here, however, will deferments.

6-FOOT GHOST IN SUSSEX

Cyclist Sees Woman Apparition

Mr. Thomas Goddard, of Ringmer, Sussex, did not believe in ghosts until recently. Now he does.

When cycling past the local church, he said he noticed something like a phosphorescent shadow in the churchyard.

"I jumped off my bicycle," he added, "and saw the faint figure of a woman nearly six feet tall walking towards me through the churchyard, through the railings, and then disappear into the woods."

Another man also says he saw the "apparition," which has so far not been explained.

The sports and dances dropped off for lack of support, then the country club burned down, and in five years the town was flat."

"But after all," continued Luke,
"home is home, and in the end we had a bright idea. When Chilton Hills was no longer smart or popular we quietly slipped back here and had the most peaceful, unbroken summer we had ever known. But the trouble was that most of the other old timers each had the same idea, and the first thing we knew the old state of affairs was threatening to start up again."

"You know, among any dozen given people, there is always someone who is never happy unless he is organising something and very shortly someone decided to get up a bazaar for the benefit of the visiting nurse. A dozen of us who were still jumpy from the old days saw the danger and we offered to give a thousand dollars if they wouldn't have the bazaar. From that simple beginning grew one of the most remarkable organisations in the world—The Red Ticket Club."

"It sounds good," I said. "What is it?"

"Every year," replied Luke, "each householder in Chilton Hills pays a hundred dollars and is given a red ticket. This exempts him from subscribing to or attending any bazaar, masquerade, treasure hunt, musical, ball, dance, hop, or any public event of any kind whatsoever and, if he is even asked to a private dinner and does not care to go,
all he has to do is reply, 'Red Ticket' and nothing more is said."

"Out of the funds thus collected are supported the church, the fire department, library, the local Red Cross; and any surplus funds are

Ford Exhibition In London

Contemporaneously with the Olympia Exhibition the Ford Motor Co. is holding a show of its own at the Albert Hall, where the main floor has been transformed into a stage with the new "De Luxe" Ford car of 10 h.p. as the centre of attraction.

THE PRINCE AMONG MARVELS OF MACHINERY

VISIT TO BRISTOL
FORD WORKS

TEMPTED TO DALLY

The Prince of Wales takes a deep interest in industrial developments, and there can be few who have enjoyed better opportunities for seeing "behind the scenes" in so many varied industries in different parts of the world. Even in his remarkable experience, however, it may be doubted if he has come across many undertakings of a more striking character than the latest to receive the honour of a visit from him—the great Ford factory at Dagenham, where he spent several energetic hours last week.

In the amazing production centre which the Ford organization has developed on the banks of the Thames is an undertaking which must be very much after the Prince's own heart. Modern as the hour;
pulsating with activity; planned
not merely for the needs of to-day but for the future; the home of experiment and new ideas; and moreover, an essentially British undertaking, the product of British brains and skill—small wonder that we read that the Prince, studying the details of this factory with close attention; suddenly became aware that he was in danger of spending far more time than he should if he were to fulfil his engagements for the rest of his busy day.

New Industrial City

When he first sees the factory that proved of such deep interest to the Prince, the visitor feels that the term "Works" has failed hopelessly to prepare him for the scene that meets his eye. It would be truer to describe the undertaking as a new industrial city, in which the primary raw materials of iron ore, limestone and coal are transmuted into cars, commercial vehicles, and tractors. One great building in itself is like a roofed-in town, with its scores of different sections divided by wide "streets", or aisles. Elsewhere a host of "industries within an industry"—a towering blast furnace, the only one in the South of England; the SILENCE ZONES FOR NORTHERN IRELAND?

The two largest and most popu-

MAYOR "ON TRIAL"

The Mayor of Salisbury is to compete in the Salisbury Motor Club's forthcoming "Safety-First Road Trial," while the Chief Constable is acting as chief steward.
The proceeds of the event are to be devoted to charity.

AUTOMOBILE PRODUCTION IN THE SOVIET

During the first ten months of the current year, Soviet plants have turned out 77,808 tractors and 57,517 automobiles, including 19,347 passenger cars.

The Automatic Clutch

Until you have driven a motor car with automatic clutch
you will never appreciate how easy and how pleasant it can be. Simply relax, forget the clutch pedal, and use the gear shift lever as a gear selector. There is nothing new to learn. The Chrysler-Plymouth is the only motor car in its class that affords you the advantages of this remarkable aid to relaxed driving comfort.

LEADING YOUR PARTNER'S SUIT

(By LADY RHODES)

PARTNER. If only you had opened my suit we would have saved it! or Partner, if you had not called those wretched Hearts, I'd have opened my Clubs and we'd have put them down.

This question of leading or not leading the suit bid by the partner seems to lead to more arguments than almost any other. Sometimes the decision is not easy, and it is most unreasonable for the partner to judge by the result of a particular hand.

Generally speaking, when playing against a No Trump declaration, it pays to lead your partner's suit unless you have a strong one of your own, which seems more likely to be established in one round. Even if the Declarer is practically certain to be doubly guarded in the suit, you may be helping your partner by removing one of the guards before the Declarer has started to develop her game.

For instance, if West, your partner, has opened with one Heart and North and South have bid up to 3 No Trumps, and you hold:

S—9 3 H—8 6 2 D—K Q 9 5 4 C—J 3 4

you should lead the 8 of Hearts. If you and your partner can get in twice before the Declarer can make nine tricks, you may defeat the contract by making three established Hearts as well as the two re-entries.

As your partner has made an opening bid, she can probably collect a trick in Spades or Clubs, and either she may collect a second trick or you may make a Diamond.

If, on the other hand, you hold:

S—9 3 H—8 6 2 D—K Q 9 5 4 C—K 8 4

you should open with the King of Diamonds and continue with the suit unless you see in Dummy four or more Diamonds or the Ace of Clubs.

If your hand is:

S—9 3 H—8 6 2 D—K Q 9 5 4 C—8 7 4

you should open with the King of Diamonds.

The Right Lead

If the Declarer has the Ace she will probably hold it up, in which case, having no re-entry, you should then lead the 8 of Hearts. If, by an unlikely chance your partner has the Ace, she should play it on your King and return the suit.

Holding three to the A, K, Q or J of your partner's suit, you should open with your lowest, as leading the honour may cost you and your partner a trick.

For example if your partner has bid on A x x x of a suit, and you hold Q x x the declarer having K J x a lead of the Queen will ensure the declarer stopping the suit twice, but if you lead a small one and your partner, after putting up her ace, returns the suit to you the declarer can only make one trick in it.

The case for leading your partner's suit is not so strong when playing against a Trump declaration. For instance, your partner has bid and re-bid Hearts and the final declaration is 3 Spades. Holding:

S—K 7 8 H—J 10 5 4 D—Q 6 5 C—K Q J

you should open with the King of Clubs and if it wins follow with the Queen. Your best chance of defeating the contract is to pick up two tricks in Clubs, one in Trumps and either two tricks in Hearts or one Heart and one Diamond.

ITALIAN SOLDIERS HAVE DAY OFF

Mussolini's Latest Order

Rome. While Signor Mussolini has been doing his utmost recently with new regulations to inculcate the Italian with militarism, he does not wish this to interfere with the soldiers' week-end.

The "Military Gazette" announces that Sunday or one day a week must be a recognised holiday, so that married men may spend one day each week with their families.

LORD OF THE 1,000 ISLES NOW DEPOSED

Sultan Of Maldiv Islands

INTERFERES WITH JUSTICE

Colombo.

Known as the "Lord of the Thousand Isles," the Sultan of the Maldiv Islands, the archipelago in the Indian Ocean, four hundred miles south-west of Ceylon, has been deposed, according to news just received here.

It is alleged that he interfered wilfully with the administration of justice and acted contrary to his vow to follow the constitution.

The Cabinet is at present administering the Government and the islands are quiet.

Absolute Monarch
The Sultan of the Maldiv Islands up to two years ago was an absolute monarch, but he surrendered some of his authority in order to institute a constitutional regime.

He rules over a population of about 80,000 people, who live on the islands of which some 300 are inhabited, the ruler himself living on the island of Male, the capital.

The chief trade of the island is the export of dried fish, tortoiseshell, coconut oil and cowrie shells. The population is mixed, and the islands are unhealthy.

The sultan is tributary to the British Government of Ceylon.

EIGHT MEN FIGHT A KING COBRA

Seven Perish In Trap Set For Snake

Lahore (Punjab).

Eight Indian labourers cutting trees in the jungle in Kaputhala State saw a king cobra, the most dangerous of all Indian snakes.

Determined to be rid of the menace, they set fire to the bushes. Trapped by flames and pungent smoke six of them perished, while a seventh lost his sight.

The eighth man, tried to rescue his trapped friends but was bitten fatally by the cobra.

tremendous power house, capable of supplying a town of 30,000 inhabitants; a great battery of coke ovens. Many miles of railway track and wide roads link this centre of industry with the outside world.

In this great grouping of productive undertakings the Ford organization manufactures motor vehicles and tractors not only for the important home market, but for export to every corner of the world. Dagenham-built Ford cars are to be seen today in practically every overseas country, while assembly plants throughout Europe are assembling cars from components manufactured at Dagenham. The importance of this works to Britain's export trade needs little explanation.

Summarizing impressions received during the Royal visit, the Ford organization may fairly claim to have shown His Royal Highness an example of successful enterprise which should afford encouragement to all interested in Britain's industrial welfare.

This great factory is providing well-paid work for thousands of British workers, and an important and growing market for raw materials from many different corners of Chicago.

The price of murder in Chicago has reached a new low level.

This was revealed when Alex Semmell stated that he had been hired to shoot a man for £2.

Semmell was arrested shortly after an abortive attempt on the life of an employee of the Chicago Motor Coach Company.

MAN LOSES LEG BUT GETS £1747

Judgment With Costs

Ronald Ernest Hayden, a motorcyclist, of Green-street, Forest Gate, E., was awarded £1747 by Mr. Justice Acton in the King's Bench Division recently for the loss of a leg below the knee following an accident in Seven Kings last April.

The defendants were the Beech Hat Company, Ltd., of Beech-lane, Seven Kings, and their driver, Louis Sallinger, of Lady-smith-avenue, Seven Kings.

It was alleged that the car crossed the traffic and passed on Hayden's near side knocking him over. Judgment was entered against both defendants, with costs.

THE RESURRECTION OF CHILTON HILLS

given to foreign missions. In two years we had applications for membership from all over the United States, and you couldn't get an inch of ground in Chilton Hills for love or money. As a matter of fact, we ourselves buy up any bits of property that come on the market, and to celebrate our tenth anniversary we bought the old Chilton Arms just for the fun of seeing it rot.

"It sounds like a work of genius," I suggested, "but what are you going to do when another, more foolish generation comes along?" "Alas," said Luke, "that is already one of our greatest worries, but the only thing we have devised so far is the Chilton Memorial. Near the centre of the town did you notice something that looks like the ruins of the old country club?"

"But isn't it the ruins of the old club?"

"Oh, goodness, no. The real chimney blew down two years after the fire and the charred beams all crumbled away, so we had a replica of the chimney made in solid concrete and false wreckage in rust-proof steel. Every Fourth of July all the children of the town are taken to look at them—not collectively, mind you, but when their parents feel good and ready. Simply and sadly they are told the story of the old Chilton Hills and then they are shown an inscription at the base of the chimney—a big rock on which is carved a modified version of Shakespeare's epitaph: 'Good friends, for Heaven's sake forbear To dig the dust enclosed here; Bleste be the man that spares the stones And curst be he that moves my bones.'"

(The End.)

Britain and the Empire. Most hopeful fact of all, in addition to supplying the large home market, it is steadily increasing its output for export, in spite of the innumerable obstacles to international trading that exist today.

Crooning Vicar Withdraws Resignation When Unaccepted

The "crooning vicar," the Rev. E. J. Pizey, has withdrawn his resignation.

He is a vicar of Walkhampton, a Dartmoor parish. Two months ago he submitted his resignation to the Bishop of Exeter (Lord William Cecil) for financial reasons.

Now he has written to the Bishop:

"As my offer to resign this living has not been accepted, and the patron of the living has assured me that he is not against me, my offer to resign is now withdrawn."

"The financial difficulty can be overcome by permission being given for me to let the vicarage, or for arrangements to be made to sell it and to build a smaller house."

When Mr. Pizey put in his resignation he said:

"I have no private means and the vicarage is too large for me to keep up."

"The income is £300. The house has about 17 to 18 rooms, six acres of land, a large garden and out-houses. Dilapidations alone amount to about £20 a year."

Mr. Pizey earned his title of "the crooning vicar" by acting as vocalist to the dance band he has formed in the parish.
